FRANCE CEASES FIGHTING, SEEKS SEPARATE PEACE

France asked Germany for an armistice today—the ninth nation to succumb to Hitler's armies in two years—as 84-year-old Marsal Petain, new French premier and World War "hero of Verdun," declared:

"It is necessary to try to end the fighting."

Petaim announced France's readiness to lay down her arms in a broadcast from Bordeaux.

"I made contact with the adversary last night, asking him as soldier to soldier to seek with me the means to stop the fight," he said.

The French high command ordered its troops to stop fighting.

"Capitulation," Hitler's Demand

Even without knowledge of whether the powerful French fleet, second biggest in Europe, would be involved in the projected French surrender, Britain voiced a grim determination to "fight on to the end."

Official announcement that France had offered to capitulate was made over the German radio, which said Hitler would soon meet with Mussolini to consider "disposition" of the offer made by Petaim.

A few minutes later, a formal announcement from Hitler's field headquarters confirmed the announcement by Petaim that France "has been forced to lay down their arms."

Previously, authorized Nazis in Berlin had said bluntly:

"No separate armistice with France is imaginable, except in terms of complete capitulation."

$500,000,000 Line Useless

French troops still fought fiercely today two hours after Petaim broadcast his announcement. Renewed French resistance was reported in a battle on the plain behind Pontarlier, near the Swiss border. Large numbers of German motorized troops, roaring south to join the Italian armies and complete the encirclement of tiny Switzerland, found their path blocked by hard-fighting French infantry.

Disposition of the French fleet immediately became the subject of serious discussion all over Britain because of its bearing on Hitler's evident intention to invade England.—Editor's note.

Loss of the French fleet would mean a serious blow to Britain's hopes of ultimately forcing Germany to her knees through blockade.

The capitulation came as France's great Maginot line—built at a cost of $500,000,000 and supposedly impregnable—was abandoned except for a skeleton defense force, and Germany's armored legions smashed through and around the vast steel-and-concrete system of fortifications.

With onrushing German armies already having cut off France's "lost provinces" of Alsace and Lorraine by thundering down to the Swiss border at Pontarlier—while other Nazi columns reportedly captured Orleans on the River Loire, where Joan of Arc won her great victory—the new French cabinet met at Bordeaux to "await developments" on France's capitulation offer.

About 1,000,000 French soldiers were reported surrounded in the Alsace-Lorraine area.

Two other small nations in the Baltic area, in the north, felt the tread of invaders' boots as Russia's Red armies marched into Estonia and Latvia early today in accordance with Moscow's week-end demands, which were accepted by the little Baltic states. Russian troops occupied Lithuania Saturday.

The Soviet move was apparently two-fold:

- 1—To halt any possible German thrust into the Baltic.
- 2—To improve Russia's strategic position for possible offensive operations.

Petaim Tells His Sad News To the People of France

BORDEAUX, France, June 17—Premier Petaim's dramatic broadcast to the French nation today clearly indicated that France had reached the end of her military rope and that no course open but an attempt to achieve an honorable peace. The Premier said:

"French men and women: At the call of the French President I have assumed leadership of the government of France."

"I have been thinking of those who have been fighting true to their old military traditions against an enemy of huge numerical superiority."

"I also think of those old combatants whom I commanded during the last war. I have given myself to France to better her situation at this grave hour."

"At this moment I think of the unfortunate refugees, the men and women on the roads, driven from their homes by the misfortune of war."

PREMIER PETAIN

"I express to them my sincerest sympathy and compassion. It is with a heavy heart that I tell you today that we must stop the fight."

"The battle has had to cease during the night."

"I sent a message to the enemy yesterday to ask him if he would meet with me, as between one soldier and another, after the fight, and honorably to seek a way to put an end to hostilities."

"Let all Frenchmen gather around the government over which I preside during these sad hours. And let them do their duty, suppress their anguish and manifest their faith in the destiny of their country."

HONORABLE PEACE IS TASK FACING PREMIER PETAIN

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BORDEAUX, France, June 17 (INS)—Hopelessly battered by an overwhelming foe, the republic of France sought an honorable peace today.

Pending a reply to the offer, the French high command ordered cessation of hostilities.

The task of bringing an end to the slaughter that has drenched half of France in blood fell to Marshal Henri Philippe Petaim.

The new premier of France unhesitatingly accepted his sad and difficult mission.

The Spanish ambassador to France, Jose Felix De La Querica, was reported named as intermediary to communicate Adolf Hitler's terms to Marshal Petaim.

FRENCH STILL FIGHTING

According to news in Bordeaux, remnants of the French army were reported still fighting against hopeless odds over a wide and scattered front.

A broadcast attributed to Petaim and picked up in both London and New York quoted him as saying that hostilities have already ceased.—Editor's note.

Thus for the third time in his life of 84 years, Petaim was charged with a historic mission.

First was when he led the French armies at Verdun in 1916 with the challenge "they shall not pass!" They did not pass.

Second was when he was lifted from comparative retirement as ambassador to Spain a few weeks ago in a desperate attempt by France to stem the onrushing Nazi tons.

Third was today when, in a role regarded as heroic as those of the past, he sought some means of sparing all France from a bath of blood by approaching Adolf Hitler as "soldier to soldier" and asking by what means and upon what terms peace could be restored.

PETAIN'S TRAGIC WORDS

A special meeting of the French cabinet ended at 11:45 p. m., and less than two hours later Petaim went on the air to announce France's offer of capitulation.

There was tragedy in Petaim's eyes but his mouth was a thin, grim line and his head was high as the octogenarian soldier-statesman strode into the ancient city hall of Bordeaux to preside over the final meeting before France's order to lay down arms went out over the air.

A strong guard was posted over an eight-block area, but it seemed hardly necessary. There was only a sprinkling of apathetic onlookers as a small group of dark-visaged men entered the spirid building to write final to this chapter of French history.

The vast majority of the swollen population here, as elsewhere in France, did not yet know what was happening.

QUESTIONS TO ANSWER

There were some momentous questions to be decided before actual hostilities can cease forever:

What will happen to the French air force and fleet?

What territorial and colonial demands can be settled?

What guarantees of the lives and liberties of officials and soldiers will be made?

What will the extent of occupation and garrisoning be?

By far the most important of these questions so far as the future of the war is concerned and so far as the world is concerned—particularly America—is that of the fleet.

If the French fleet falls into German hands, observers here said, the German military menace automatically and at once changes from a mere continental menace to a potential world menace.

Britain Vows to Continue Fight, Worries Over Fate of French Navy

EVENING AMERICAN MONDAY, JUNE 17, 1940

LONDON, June 17—Great Britain authoritatively stated today her resolute determination to continue the war until victory is won.

BIG FRENCH FLEET WOULD GIVE NAZIS NEAR SEA PARITY

Disposition of the great French fleet on whatever terms are arrived at between France and Germany will be the major consideration in what steps Great Britain will continue to take in prosecution of the war.

Under the terms of Germany's surrender in the first World War, the German fleet was surrendered to Great Britain, but the major portion of it was scuttled by the German sailors themselves.

Observers doubt that Hitler will consent to any terms that do not include the full surrender of the French fleet. Such a surrender would not only be revenge for what Germany considers her humiliation during the last war, but it would give Germany a sea power in combination with the Italian fleet and its own that will match the might of the British navy.

FRENCH NAVY MAY REBEL

If the surrender of the French fleet is agreed upon, it is still problematical whether the ships themselves will be given over by their crews to Germany.

The French fleet since the start of the war has been under the command of the British admiralty, just as the British expeditionary forces in France have been under the command of the French army.

It is inconceivable that Britain, if she can prevent it by any means, will permit the French ships to go into the hands of the Germans, and it is by no means certain that the crews of these ships will obey a command to surrender. They may scuttle some of them, or they may take them all into British waters, to be manned by combination crews of British and French under British command for continuance of hostilities.

PERILS BRITISH MASTERY

If Britain should lose the French navy to Germany, she would be confronted with a grave situation.

The British navy—something more than 2,000,000 tons—was the biggest afloat. The French fleet totals about 819,000 tons and the Italian 718,000. Germany did have some 579,000 tons at the outbreak of the war, but much of that has been destroyed.

The addition of the French fleet to that of Italy and what is left of the German navy would bring the German-Italian strength perilously close to that of Britain. Where, then, would this leave England's control of the seas?

Dispatches indicate England hopes the French fleet will be turned over to her.

Supposing, however, that Hitler threatens the French with terrible penalties if this is done? That certainly would raise a dire problem.

MIGHT BLOCKADE BRITAIN

The same might be said of the French air-force. Theoretically, it would be feasible for the French to send their planes winging across the Channel to their ally. Practically such an operation might result in fierce German sanctions.

We shall have to wait and see what the fates produce.

Britain will try to meet Germany not only in battle but to maintain that great naval blockade which has cut the Reich off from virtually all sea-borne supplies. Whether Britain will indeed be able to keep up the blockade may depend on the disposition of that vital French fleet.

Should this navy go to the German-Italian entente, the blockade might be reversed against England, which has to import the great bulk of its foodstuffs and other supplies.

Last night's statement that "in their unshakable determination to achieve victory no matter what the cost, the government and the empire have the united support of their people," still expressed the opinion of the British government, an authoritative spokesman declared.

Great Britain and the British Commonwealth of Nations "are determined to continue the struggle" an authoritative spokesman said later.

The British press urged that everything be done without delay to buttress the defense of the kingdom.

FRENCH FLEET PROBLEM

"The full brunt of the war must now fall on this island," said Lord Beaverbrook's Standard.

The paper urged that the British Isles be converted into a "floating fortress."

The News declared that "if the nation rises as one man to the towering height of the struggle"

BULLETIN

LINCOLN, England, June 17.—(AP)—Sir Neville Henderson told a meeting here today that he expects Adolf Hitler to attempt the invasion of England this month or July rather than wait until August or September.

The admiralty issued an order today that every British ship in a United Kingdom port must have adequate numbers of the crew aboard at all times to man defensive guns and fire-fighting equipment.

There will be no need for dismay. The main uncertainty is the future of the French fleet.

Meanwhile, certain reputable quarters expressed conviction that Germany's next move would be a peace offensive directed toward Great Britain and that such a move might conceivably be made through the United States.

In competent quarters there was not the slightest attempt to blame the French for their surrender. It was realized and agreed that the French put up the bravest sort of fight against terrible odds, and only utter exhaustion compelled today's declarations.

There was the inevitable speculation over what might come next.

Hitler to See Duce On Terms to France

BERLIN, June 17 (AP)—The Berlin radio today broadcast an official announcement by the high command that Marshal Pétain "has proclaimed France's capitulation" and that Hitler would meet Premier Mussolini of Italy shortly to discuss this situation.

The announcement said:

"The premier of the newly-formed French government (Marshal Pétain) has declared in a radio address to the French nation that France must lay down her arms.

"He referred therein to the step already taken by him to inform the Reich government of this decision and to learn the conditions under which Germany would be prepared to meet the French wishes.

"The Fuehrer will meet the Italian prime minister, Benito Mussolini, for a discussion in which the position of the two states will be examined."

"No separate armistice with France is imaginable except in terms of complete capitulation," authorized sources in Berlin had said previously.

It was asserted that France was regarded as "England's sword which by all means must be wrenched from England's hand."

Informed observers explained that an armistice short of capitulation would leave the French

250,000 Cheer Bunker Hill Day Paraders

Veterans of 4 Wars Among Marchers

Where the ranks of British regulars broke 165 years ago under fire of Bunker Hill's little band of American "rabble in arms," modern Charlestown paraders marched today, to the cheers of more than 250,000.

Led by Chief Marshal Frank J. Sharpe, an estimated 15,000 marchers wound through streets of the district, with mechanized units of the National Guard attracting considerable attention because of the part such units have been playing in the war overseas.

In contrast to last year's threatening weather, today was ideal for the annual spectacle in Charlestown, with hardly a cloud in the sky as the head of the parade stepped away at 2:15 p. m.

VETERANS OF FOUR WARS

More than 2000 soldiers, marines and sailors were in line, in addition to veterans of four wars and members of scores of civic organizations, police and firemen's bands, and boy and girl units.

Many notables of city, county, state and the national governments were in line, and along the route at various points a dozen bouquets were handed to former Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Francis E. Kelly.

They were escorted by the band and cadets of St. Ann's Church, Newport.

Governor Saltonstall was escorted by Newton Post, American Legion, of which he is a member, while Mayor Tobin was under escort of Alexander Graham Bell Post of the Legion, composed of his former employees with the telephone company.

Predominant in the parade, along which were stationed 500 policemen in command of Capt. John A. Dorsey of Charlestown station, were junior units of marchers, representing sons and daughters of World War veterans.

The parade was the highlight of Charlestown's two-day celebration, ushered in by exhortations from statesmen, warriors and civic leaders.

Among the most stirring of the night-before addresses was given by Edwin C. Hill, Hearst columnist and radio commentator, principle speaker at the annual dinner in Charlestown Armory.

MEMORIAL MASS

He warned the European democracies had been blind to the threat of dictators during the last seven years and that this blindness had all but crushed those democracies under the swift steel and bombs of totalitarianism.

The banquet climaxed a day which began with a memorial mass at St. Francis de Sales Church in which an eloquent plea for unity among Americans was voiced by Rev. Mark C. Driscoll, D. D., pastor. He told 1000 war veterans attending the mass:

"In the common bond of Americanism let us stand united and unafraid. Unity is our greatest need today.

COLISSEUM RAID SHELTER

ROME, June 17 (AP)—Italian authorities, accelerating anti-air precautions, announced that the Coliseum and other Roman monuments are being adapted to civilian use as bomb shelters.

Day's Program

Here is the program of main events as Charlestown celebrates today, the 165th anniversary of the historic Battle of Bunker Hill:

5 p. m.—Baseball game championship of Charlestown at Barry Playground.

5:30 p. m.—Fire drill by Boston Fire Department, Monument grounds.

6 p. m.—Edwin C. Hill news broadcast, Monument grounds.

7 p. m.—Block parties, Pleasant and Warren sts.

Band concerts: 7 Decatur st., Emmons Playground, K. of C. reviewing stand, Monument grounds.

NEWTON WOMAN FACES SLANDER SUIT TRIAL

One of two slander suits, each for $100,000, filed against two former women neighbors by Mrs. Vernita Mason of Kingswood rd., Auburndale, was ordered to trial today by Judge Thomas Weston in Newton court.

Judge Weston's action followed filing of a demurrer in behalf of both Mrs. Mercer Hinckley and Mrs. Grace Chandler, both of Page rd., Newtonville, named as defendants in the suit charging false, malicious and scurrilous remarks. In the case of Mrs. Hinckley the demurrer was sustained in all particulars. In the instance of Mrs. Chandler, however, the court ruled she should stand trial on one of the statements alleged to have been made by her.

Attorneys for Mrs. Mason have a period of seven days in which to file an amended declaration. In arguing the petition for a demurrer Atty. Donald T. Donaldson, appearing for both Mrs. Hinckley and Mrs. Chandler, told the court that even if the statements were made they were not slanderous.

HOLDUP AT BUCKMINSTER FOLLOWS $2500 INN THEFT

Twenty-four hours after a girl's plea averted possible tragedy in a $2500 holdup in Wayland, an armed holdup gang struck again in Greater Boston early today.

In the second raid, possibly by the same gang, the Buckminster Hotel, Kenmore sq., Back Bay, was robbed of $31, police said. Two men committed the actual robbery, timing their movements to arrive at a time when the night clerk, David Walsh, 57, was alone and the lobby deserted.

"Give us all the dough you got and hurry up about it!" commanded one gunman while the other scooped up $31 from the cash box.

After fleeing through the Brookline ave. doorway, the bandits were believed to have joined two accomplices waiting in a car with the motor running.

FATAL SHOOTING
In the Wayland holdup, Miss Helen Jenkins, 32, of Weston, cashier at the Red Coach Inn, was credited with possibly saving the lives of herself and three other employees as four armed men, three masked, took $2500 from the inn safe.

The raid recalled the recent fatal shooting of James Tuohy, assistant manager of the Household Finance Corp., by a bandit who fired upon Tuohy after the latter, resisting, tripped the bandit. One bandit tripped in the Wayland robbery as he went to rip out two telephones. Drawing his gun, the jittery gunman appeared about to fire upon the four employees when Miss Jenkins pleaded with him not to shoot.

ESCAPE IN CAR
Her plea was successful as the bandit, after some discussion, decided to leave the victim lying on the floor with a warning to stay there quietly for 10 minutes.

The bandit who had threatened to shoot, apparently believed that one of the employees, Edward Hull, 41, of Brookline, had tried to trip him, police said.

The gunman escaped in a car which state police believe had been stolen earlier from a Framingham dealer.

The holdup was staged as John Larkin, 43, of Wayland, inn manager, sent Guy Kelton, 31, also of Wayland, out to his car near the inn to put on the lights preparatory to leaving.

As Kelton snapped on the lights, one of the bandit quartet poked a gun at him and told him to keep quiet or he would blow his head off.

Woman Drowns In Waltham

Mrs. Cora M. Sawin, 60, of Fairmont ave., Waltham, was accidentally drowned today when she fell into the Charles river near Moody st. bridge, Waltham.

Mrs. Sawin was employed in the home of Mrs. Reece McLaughlin, also of Fairmont ave.

Patrolman Frank Tufts of the Waltham police heard the woman's screams and later discovered her caught underneath the bridge.

Dr. Thomas Morton Gallagher, medical examiner, pronounced the woman's death due to accident.

Stocks Slump Brief; Axis Bonds Spurt

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—The French capitulation to Germany gave financial markets a momentary jolt today, but selling was quickly absorbed, and price losses were partly reduced.

Shares of leading corporations dropped $1 to $5 in the Stock Exchange, then came back from a few cents to $2. Wheat dropped about 6 cents a bushel at Chicago, only to rebound a couple of cents. Cotton futures at New York lost more than $1 a bale, before effective support appeared.

There was no such hasty, large-scale selling as occurred last month at the start of "total war."

German and Italian bonds rose sharply, but there was little dealing in allied government issues. The German 5½ per cent issue was traded at $175 per $1000 face value, up $23.75, and about double the year's lowest price. Rome City 6½ per cents sold at $460 per $1000 bond, up $80, Canadian 5 per cents of 1932 sold at $895, off only $3.75. United States Government issues again advanced.

Foreign exchange dealings were confused, with banks unable to do confused, with banks unable to do "free" British pound, now of limited use since almost all payments must be made at the official rate of $1.03½, dipped 8 cents to $3.01. The Canadian dollar was unchanged at $1½ American cents.

Rome Says Allies Flew Over Vatican

ROME, June 17 (INS)—Enemy planes flew over Vatican City during one of the raids on Rome, it was stated in the Italian capital today.

Complying with Italian regulations, the civil and ecclesiastical population of Vatican City, including Cardinals Maglione, Cicali, Cremonesi, Tisserant, a number of archbishops and more than 100 priests and diplomatic representatives of Britain, France and Poland took refuge in four special shelters.

It was not known whether Pope Pius XII took refuge in a special shelter in the court yard of the sacred office, accessible by means of a private elevator. It was believed, however, that the Pontiff remained in his private apartment, while the Allied planes soared overhead.

DO YOU SMOKE THE CIGARETTE THAT SATISFIES

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, Jr. means a really fine performance, and that's why you'll enjoy seeing him in SAFARI, Paramount's current production.

They Satisfy means Chesterfield

... Chesterfield means the Cooler,
Better-Tasting, Definitely Milder Smoke

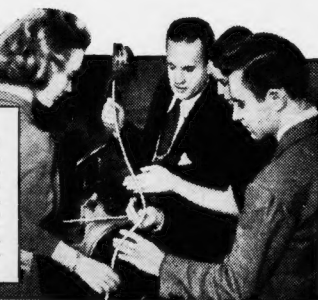

One of the best-known slogans in the whole country is "They Satisfy" and it describes Chesterfields one hundred per cent.

And here's the reason... Chesterfield's Right Combination of the best cigarette tobaccos that grow in all Tobaccoland makes them cooler, better-tasting and definitely milder.

BETTER MADE FOR BETTER SMOKING

Every Chesterfield must conform to the one right standard of size and shape for a cooler, better-tasting, definitely milder smoke. Chesterfields are made right in every detail to give you the cigarette that really satisfies. (Picture from the new film "TOBACCO-LAND, U. S. A.")

G. O. P. Convention Policy Group Meets

PHILADELPHIA, June 17 (AP)—Half a dozen Republican leaders were mentioned prominently today for chairmanship of the important resolutions committee as this policy-forming group met a week before the national convention to organize before tackling party platform problems.

The name of Alf M. Landon was among those heard most frequently in hotel lobby speculation on the chairmanship, but a high Republican official said he understood the former Kansas Governor would not accept the post.

International News Service said Alf M. Landon on arrival here declared he was "absolutely not" a candidate for the White House this year—Editor's note.

Sharing mention with Landon were C. Wayland Brooks, Chicago lawyer; Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts' junior Senator; Henry P. Fletcher, former Republican national chairman; George Wharton Pepper, former U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania, and Sen. John Thomas of Idaho.

The convention arrangements committee met at the same time to conduct business National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton said would be "routine."

WITHIN THE U. S.

The 50 members of the resolutions committee, summoned to meet in advance of a convention for the first time, face the knotty problem of fashioning a foreign policy plank adaptable to current and future domestic upheavals resulting from the European war.

Some committeemen insist that, the war notwithstanding, their primary responsibility is to make recommendations for improvements within the country rather than in foreign affairs.

Among the younger members there is strong sentiment for a concise platform, stripped of literary flourishes. Samuel F. Pryor, Jr., 42-year-old national committeeman from Greenwich, Conn., and member of the resolutions and convention arrangements groups, hopes it will be "as short as the Lord's prayer and as simple."

DEATH RIFLE SOUGHT

DOVER, FOXCROFT, Me., June 17—Authorities today questioned all owners of 30.30 rifles in seeking the slayer of Patrick Mackie, 69, and his brother, Harry, 60. The brothers were shot to death and their cabin set in flames.

London Bans Trading In U. S. Stocks

LONDON, June 17 (AP)—The Bank of England banned today dealings in Canadian and United States stocks and bonds. The new order was the latest in a series to conserve foreign exchange. Permits for residents or non-residents for such trading were cancelled.

Pétain Problem Is a Just Peace

in a broadcast today from Bordeaux over the facilities of Paris Mondial, the official French radio:

"Just 35 minutes ago, Marshal Pétain broadcast in a blinding thunderstorm from this very same studio an announcement to the French people that last night he had asked for an armistice."

Then Taylor gave a translation of the address and continued:

"As soon as he finished this speech Marshal Pétain left the studio and entered a limousine which waited at the door. He had on a trench raincoat and black hat. His face showed no emotion whatsoever."

SEEK NAZI TERMS

Taylor's report concluded at this point and Eric Sevareid, another member of the CBS staff in Bordeaux, came on the air to say:

"You have heard the unofficial translation of the Marshal's speech, who told the people of the nation that the war is ceasing; and, as we told you last night, his intermediary is expected to be the ambassador of Spain. What the German terms will be, if they will give terms, none of us know as yet."

"We understand that German troops are not very far away from the place from which the French radio is now operating."

"The order to the French radio is to stand by until the last possible moment so that the news may go to America and the rest of the world of these historic events in France today."

AMERICANS SEEK PASSAGE

"The American consulate is swamped with calls from Americans, French, British and others who are attempting to get accommodations to the United States."

"When, and if the Germans will arrive in Bordeaux, the present capital of France, none of us knows at the present moment."

MOBS BEAT SECT MEMBERS WHO WON'T SALUTE FLAG

LITCHFIELD, Ill., June 17 (AP)—Members of a religious sect, distributing literature in Litchfield, were attacked by residents because of their refusal to salute the flag and their automobiles were wrecked in a series of disturbances. About 65 members of the sect were taken to the small city jail, where some of them were overcome by the heat and the excitement. Chief of Police George Taylor said the arrests were made "by citizens with police protection."

Armed Trio Wake, Rob Wellesley Girl

Alone in her home, attractive 20-year-old Phyllis Devlin, of Raymond st., Medford, a junior at Wellesley College, was roused from a sound sleep today to find three men in her bedroom and a gun pointed at her head.

"Take it easy, sister, and you won't get hurt," said one of the trio, brandishing a blue steel automatic pistol.

Before the terrified girl could cry out, one man threw a cloth over her head, then stood guard over her while his two companions leisurely ransacked the two-story home from attic to cellar.

Leut. John O'Leary, of the Medford police, who later proved the robbery, said the burglars' loot consisted of jewelry, including Phyllis' class ring, valued at $750.

The bandits worked methodically after entering the home, apparently through an unlocked pantry window. They cut the telephone cord, and had stationed a fourth man outside in a parked car.

Miss Devlin said one of the men addressed her by her name and that she heard one bandit called "Joe" by an accomplice.

TELLS FATHER

Her guard, she said, frequently assured her no harm would come to her if she remained quiet. She described him as well-groomed, a man about 35 years old, wearing a dark blue suit and light gray hat.

With telephone service disrupted, Miss Devlin dressed, dashed to her car and drove to Charlestown to tell her father of the robbery after the bandits left the home casually through the front door.

The father, John Devlin, who operates a club there, telephoned Charlestown police, who in turn contacted Medford authorities.

British Take All Paris U. S. Deals

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Reliable Wall Street sources today disclosed the British government intends to "take over" all war supplies contracted for in this country by France and British as much more here as the United States can produce.

These same sources said sellers of war supplies were inclined to take "at its face value" Prime Minister Churchill's statement that Great Britain would carry on the war.

Something more than $1,000,000,000 worth of war supplies—mainly airplanes—are known to have been ordered by the British-French purchasing commission in the United States up to Friday when the French, according to official announcement, placed "many millions" of additional orders.

The financial district understands more than 6000 airplanes ordered in the United States by the French and British still are undelivered of original orders for more than 8000. These, it was assumed, now will be diverted to Great Britain.

U. S. Will Get All Americans Home

WASHINGTON, June 17 (INS)—American nationals who have been forced into a "pocket" and stranded in southwestern France by the advance of the German army will be returned to this country under some sort of evacuation plan, if they cannot get home any other way, government spokesmen indicated today.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, stuffy, and the world looks dumb.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 50¢ and 25¢. Don't buy cheap imitations.

BURGLARS' VISIT—Three burglars early today visited the Raymond st., Medford, home of John Devlin. One man held pretty Miss Phyllis Devlin, 20, captive; the remaining two ransacked the home of jewelry and clothing valued at $700. Miss Devlin was asleep when the men made their entry through a pantry window.

3 Pedestrians Die In Auto Accidents

Three auto fatalities were recorded today in New England—all pedestrians.

Two of the tragedies, which occurred in Greater Boston, took the lives of James H. Cotter, 54, of Frank st., Revere, and Joseph Semerville, 29, of Westminster st., Revere.

Cotter was run down by a speeding car while walking in North Shore rd., near his home. Semerville was crushed between his own car and another on Randolph ave., Milton, while he was changing a tire.

The third victim was George T. Skiff, 34, killed when struck by a car as he crossed the state highway at Minot Corner, Auburn, Me. Meanwhile, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin reported a marked increase in child fatalities last week. Eleven deaths were reported, but five of the six pedestrians killed were young children, he said.

R. I. Solon Seeking To Open Path for War Orphan Entry

By GEORGE BRADBOURNE

Americans who want war orphans should get them very soon. Rep. Sandager of Rhode Island has filed a bill in Congress to lift immigration restrictions immediately to permit war orphans from Belgium, France, Holland and Britain to come here as soon as possible without passports, visas or head taxes if American individuals or corporations agree to educate, maintain and support the children.

Other bills are awaiting consideration. Also State Department and other officials are studying existing legislation.

For the work of saving young lives and preventing babies from being killed by bombs, or suffocated by gas, appeals powerfully to every charitably minded person. Hundreds of persons are writing daily to the editor of the American and those of the record are Sunday Advertiser.

SPECIAL BUREAU

Every letter goes to the Special War Orphans' Bureau opened in Washington by these newspapers. Each letter is evidence that a person or family wants a child just as soon as it can be brought to America.

All requests and offers will be considered and sincere attempts made to have a baby reach every responsible applicant.

Among the many letters that came to the editor of the American today were these:

NASHUA, N. H.—"I am greatly interested in the evacuation of helpless children from war-torn Europe.

"As we have no children in our home, I wonder if it would be possible for us to open our home and hearts to some of these little ones.

"If this appeal is granted, we would like either English or Scotch children, as we are English.

"You may be assured that we will take them into our home and give them every advantage and love as though they were our own.

"We have tried for some time to get local children, but without success. We would like two sisters or a brother and sister, about four to six years old.

"We can furnish references as to character and our ability to provide adequately for the little ones."

SOUTH BOSTON—"We can give a good Catholic home and an American citizenship to a boy from Europe. If it would be possible, we'd like two little ones, a brother and sister, or two brothers.

"We are not wealthy. But we are comfortable. We have no children of our own and would dearly love to be foster parents to boys and girls who very probably will be killed if humanity is ignored and they are compelled to stay in the war zones."

NEW BEDFORD—"We are an 'old maid' and a bachelor. We have beautiful home and everything a child would enjoy. My brother would like to adopt a boy and do all for him that he would certainly do for his own son, were he married and had one.

"If the government cuts red tape—and it most assuredly should be cut—and the war orphans come to America, I do hope our request will be seriously considered."

"As I see it, we should not be considered unconventional in agreeing to provide for a child. With us, he could have social position and assurance of any kind or type of education he desired later on.

"Our nephew and niece spend their summers with us, and we know how really wonderful it is to have children in the house."

EAST BOSTON—"My husband and I would like to adopt two babies, a brother and sister. We would prefer a French or Belgian boy and girl, as we are both dark haired.

"The children would have a good home with us. In fact, we would literally love them to death."

HARTLAND, Vt.—"I should love to adopt a little war orphan, preferably a boy five or six years of age. My husband is Irish-American, and my father was born in England. We have a comfortable home of our own, and I believe we could make a child very happy.

"I have children of my own, all grown, and still have the feeling for younger children around. We are not too old to bring up another family, as we are still in our early forties.

"There is no need to leave the little ones over there in the war zone when so many American parents want them."

MILTON—"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that the children will come here. I don't see how a humane government could refuse so worth while and charitable thing. As I see it, the Americans who have the means to take these children will get them.

"That is why I am writing to you, Mr. Editor. There is a very big and warm place in my heart and home for four children for the duration of the war."

FROM MALDEN—"Officials talk about helping the Allies with war supplies and military equipment. I do not find fault with that. But I do think bringing children out of the war zones and giving them homes with childless American couples is an equally necessary endeavor.

"I do hope the government will heed your request, lift immigration restrictions and permit the war orphans to come to the United States.

"There is a room in my home for four children as long as the war lasts."

FROM LACONIA, N. H.—"My husband and I would like a little girl, but we shall not specify any particular nationality. All children need love and care.

"We shall love the little one as our own and do our utmost to make him forget the unhappiness he has known in recent months over there."

Dad of 17 Wins Fair Father's Day Title

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—It was Father's Day, and Bernard Phillips, 48, a milk business man, was declared champion of the day by bringing along as 17 children, 14 of them girls.

U. S. CAN BE READY, IS FORD VIEW

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Elder Ford believes that the United States can be prepared "for all wars" emergencies, before some people think it possible.

Interviewed during a broadcast he was asked whether preparedness work for the government would interfere with regular automobile production. He replied:

"I see no reason to get hysterical about preparedness, nor why our part in it should interfere with our regular production—unless, of course, supplies of raw materials are curtailed, and there appears no immediate prospect of that happening."

"In fact, America can be prepared for all emergencies before some people think it possible."

Although he declined to estimate how many planes the Ford company could turn out the impression gained was that he supported the estimate of his father, Henry Ford, that 1000 planes a day could be produced. The elder Ford admitted, however, that production must not be hampered by "red tape."

NAVY ASKS $1,200,000 FOR 84 MORE WARSHIPS 13

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—A new $1,200,000,000 expansion of the Navy to provide for 84 additional warships was proposed in an Administration-approved bill today by Chairman Vinson (D.) of Georgia of the House naval committee.

national warships was proposed in an Administration-approved bill today by Chairman Vinson (D.) of Georgia of the House naval committee. Vinson said he and Chairman Walsh (D.) of Massachusetts of the Senate naval committee would introduce identical bills providing for this big boost in the Navy amounting to a 22 per cent increase in the fleet's present authorized strength of 1,500,000 tons.

"World conditions make it absolutely imperative that the Navy be built up as rapidly as possible," Vinson told reporters. Vinson spoke just after Pres. Roosevelt had signed two previous bills authorizing a naval air force of 10,000 planes and 16,000 pilots and increasing the fleet by 21 new warships, and 22 auxiliary naval vessels.

22 PER CENT BOOST
Specific sums are provided in the aviation expansion bill for 21 air bases. It also permits spending of $20,000,000 for building and improving reserve and auxiliary bases.

Vinson's outline of the new naval bill, which carries a 22 per cent expansion in addition to the 11 per cent expansion approved today by Mr. Roosevelt, contemplated the following:

Aircraft carriers, 79,500 tons, approximately three ships.
Cruisers, 198,000 tons, approximately 12 ships.
Destroyers, 80,100 tons, approximately 41 ships.
Submarines, 42,000 tons, approximately 28 ships.

Montgomery Quits the War

LISBON, Portugal, June 17 (AP)—Robert Montgomery, movie actor, arrived in Lisbon from France tonight en route to the United States by clipper after less than a month's service as an ambulance driver with the American field service. He was accepted into the service May 26. He said he had several narrow escapes.

Total tonnage $79,000, approximately 81 ships. Vinson asserted that $400,000,000 would be required during the fiscal year beginning July 1 to commence the additional program.

British, Italians Clash in Africa

ROME, June 17 (AP)—Italy still active principally in the air in her first week of warfare, said today in a headquarters communiqué that her aerial raiders had bombed Allied naval bases and flying fields yesterday in Malta, Corsica and Tunisia.

Reconnaissance activity continued in the Alps along the Franco-Italian borders, and in North Africa there were clashes of Italian and British troops.

In British tanks the communiqué said, a civilian was killed at Suvona and several others were wounded, and at Ghatia, six Italian technicians were killed and 30 wounded in an attack on an airfield. The British using tanks attacked Italian outposts in Libya. On the Mediterranean sea and in the air, the Italians declared their forces destroyed 10 British and two British planes and an Allied submarine, and announced that anti-aircraft batteries brought down four other Allied planes during raids on Girona the night of June 15-16.

Navy Yard Goes Into High Gear

Full speed ahead was the order today as a two shift working day went into effect at Charlestown navy yard.

More than 8000 men now are employed, but a serious shortage of skilled mechanics and repairmen is retarding peak efficiency, it was said.

Assigned to the yard under the 1941 naval appropriations act was construction of two mine destroyers and two seaplane tenders.

The two new shifts ran from 7 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. and 3:30 to midnight. To permit new men to work full time, restrictions on apprenticeship have been loosened.

forces free for reorganization for a possible smash against the Italians. This Germany never would permit, they said.

"We continue to fight," declared a spokesman in discussing what he termed "rumors and conjecture of French capitulation offers."

Complete capitulation probably would mean surrender of the French fleet, second strongest in Europe, and counted upon by England in its blockade.

With this, he said, the navy would have 244 ships under construction during the coming fiscal year. All are to be completed by 1944.

HEARINGS TOMORROW

The proposal for a huge new program followed review of an Administration intention to build a separate Atlantic fleet. Vinson, however, talked only of numbers and tonnage.

He announced hearings on his measure would begin tomorrow with high naval officers at witnesses. He predicted the hearings could be concluded in one day and the measure presented to the House Wednesday. He said there was "no reason" that Congress could not complete action on the legislation by the end of the week.

He added, however, that Congress "must" pass the legislation before it adjourns.

Meanwhile, at the West House, President Roosevelt and congressional leaders talked about the legislative and war situations to lay leaving up to the legislators a decision on whether Congress should adjourn or merely recess during the national political convention.

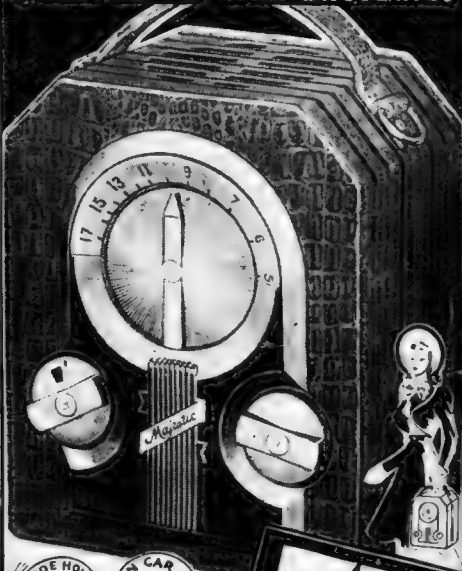

Senate Majority Leader Barkley said some solution would be worked out but he could not tell "what the situation will be by the end of the week."

He said it was "pretty well for that so far as the defense legislation is concerned Congress can wait up this week."

Red Move in Baltic Puzzles Observers

STOCKHOLM, June 17 (AP)—Tallin, Tartu and other large towns in Estonia were occupied today by Soviet troops who marched in shortly after the government accepted Moscow's ultimatum. Latvia was also entered by the Soviet soldiers. (The Berlin radio said Riga, Latvia's capital, was occupied.)

The newspaper Aftonbladet reported from Kaunas, Lithuania, that the occupation of Riga was delayed until afternoon. Soviet troops marched into Lithuania Saturday.

President Smiltunis was reported to have fled to Germany and been interned at Koenigsberg.

Aftonbladet said in a Kaunas dispatch that he was likely to be returned to his own country.

Soviet intentions roused much speculation among observers who argued that troop concentrations were considerably larger than necessary for domination of the small Baltic States where Russia already had troops.

Questions left unanswered were: Was Russia merely reaching out to regain territories she once held, while the western war momentarily distracted major attention from her actions?

Was the strengthening military preparedness in anticipation of a break with Germany? Was she acting in co-operation with the Nazis?

Or was she preparing to enter the western war on the side of one belligerent or the other? Baltic occupation, one informant suggested, might be a step toward opening a new trade rail route to the Balkans.

Reds Enter Riga, Says Nazi Broadcast

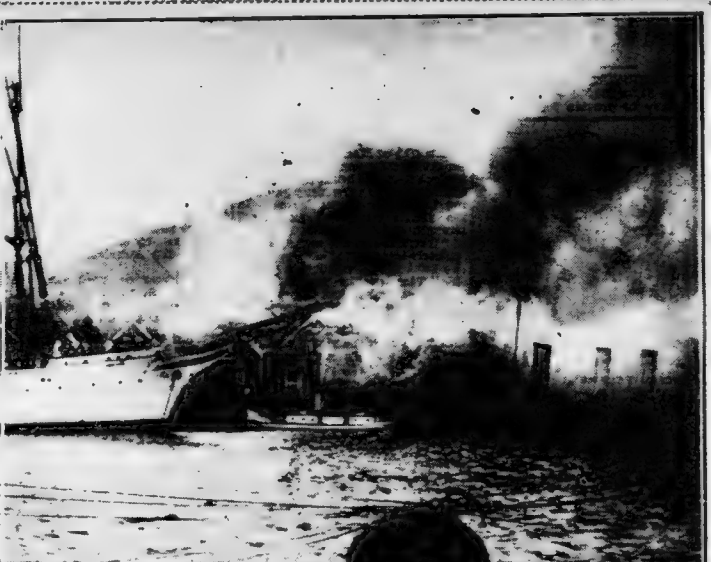

BERLIN, June 17 (AP)—The German radio broadcast today a report that Russian troops had crossed the Latvian border at several points and occupied five cities, including Riga, the capital.

Control of bridges and radio facilities was assumed by the Russian military, the report said.

Mitau, Dunaburg, Kreuzburg and Resekne also were entered.

Some of the Russian troops entered from Lithuania, which was occupied Saturday by Russia.

An official Latvian announcement as to Russian demands and the nature of the new government presumably to be formed will be made later today, the German radio report said.

Italian Bombs Kill 5 Egyptians

CAIRO, June 17 (INS)—Five Egyptian soldiers were killed and nine wounded in four Italian air raids yesterday, a communique stated today.

The announcement said Sollum, Sidi Barrani, and Matruh were bombed by Italian planes, Matruh undergoing two attacks.

At Matruh, it was reported, a 200-pound bomb exploded two feet from the entrance to a dugout where correspondents were taking shelter.

(A Reuters' dispatch said Richard Mowrer of the Chicago Daily News was injured in the face and taken to a hospital. Other correspondents suffered abrasions when they were struck by falling masonry, Reuters reported.)

Announcement of the Italian raids came as the nation awaited a cabinet decision on what action to take regarding Italy as a result of the attack on Sollum on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

Another British Steamer Sunk

BERLIN, June 17 (AP)—The sinking of the 11,400-ton British steamer Wellington Star by a German submarine was reported today by the German high command. No details were given.

Britain May Send Nazi Prisoners Overseas

LONDON, June 17 (AP)—Plans for transfer of German prisoners to British possessions overseas or to a suitable island off the coast to lessen the danger of attempts by parachutists to free them are "believed under consideration by the government," the British Press Ass'n said today.

LINDBERGH ATTACKED BY FORMER ADVISER

The latest isolationist speech by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh found an echo in Boston today after a vigorous reply from the famed aviator's one-time close adviser and the mauling of a heckler by an irate crowd.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, former personal counsel to Lindbergh, told a throng of 20,000 on Boston Common that "it is inconceivable that America can exist as the only free nation in a world of conquering nations."

Addressing a national defense meeting sponsored by the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, Breckinridge lashed out against those who would try "to lull the American people into a false sense of security."

The address of Col. Breckinridge billed as an answer to Lindbergh's radio address Saturday night, was interrupted by a heckler who leaped to a bench and shouted: "Three cheers for the Nazi cross!"

AT OUR GATES

A sailor pulled the man to the ground, a woman struck him with a rolled magazine and as others in the crowd began to jostle him around, police intervened. Taken to Joy st. station, he was booked on a charge of disturbing a public assembly.

Col. Lindbergh, in his Washington address, had said "we must stop this trend" toward involvement in the European war, declaring economic assistance to the Allies would lead inevitably to military aid. The aviator, in a previous address, condemned "meddling with affairs abroad" and "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion."

Without mentioning Lindbergh by name, Breckinridge said that with the conquest of Denmark and Holland, which have possessions in the western hemisphere, "the blood-drenched Hitler is at our gates." He called for all possible aid to Britain and France.

The former assistant secretary of war and World War veteran referred indirectly to Lindbergh's statement that America was pro-teected by the oceans which separate it from foreign nations.

FALSE SECURITY

"Can a man who is both intelligent and honest try to lull the American people into a false sense of security by pointing to the three thousand miles of the Atlantic ocean and the twelve three thousand miles of the Pacific ocean?"

Pittman Scores Lindy, Demands He Aid Defense

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Senator Pittman (D.) of Nevada, has called on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to "throw aside all of his false political advisors and volunteer in the United States government as an expert in aviation."

"Let Col. Lindbergh cease efforts to create unfounded war fear and lack of confidence in our government," Pittman said in a NBC radio reply to Lindbergh's speech.

"Let Lindbergh and his advisors know that when one fools with politics in a national emergency, he is fooling with disaster."

Wellesley College Gives 300 Degrees

Degrees were awarded 300 seniors at Wellesley College today at its 62nd annual commencement exercises while scores of other New England colleges and preparation schools held their graduation ceremonies.

Karl Taylor Compton, president of M. I. T. delivered the Wellesley commencement address in Sumner Hall, during which he asserted it was primarily because of the lack of enforcement provisions that the League of Nations failed. Following the presentation of degrees President Mildred H. McAlfee announced total gifts to Wellesley in the past year amounted to $318,824.

When the present was over, Dr. Compton said:

"There must be a reasonable pace in which re-venge and greed play no part."

Asserting that the League's failure was partly due to the isolationist and independent attitude of the United States, Dr. Compton pointed out that another flaw was the fact its actions were not binding on members.

"The terms of peace, and of whatever League," Dr. Compton added, "must be so clear cut as to give no loopholes for quibbling or manipulation."

The largest single bequest to Wellesley, President McAlfee announced, was for $203,872, from the late Alice Cheney Baltzell, college

Among the outstanding gifts to the Wellesley library is a first printed edition of Euclid, Venice 1482, given by the class of 1905 in memory of the late Ellen Fitz Pendleton, president from 1911 to 1936.

Harvard

Highlight of commencement activities at Harvard today was the announcement of an entirely new five-year dental course to be launched in 1941.

The new plan has been made possible through gifts of $1,200,000 already made toward a required $1,500,000, President James B. Conant said.

First of its kind, the course will combine the basic knowledge and skills of both medicine and dentistry and is designed to train new types of scientific workers for attack of the most public health problems of dental disease, Conant explained.

In his baccalaureate address which opened Harvard's Commencement exercises, President Conant urged the class of 1940 to revitalize loyalty to the United States and to "build an aristocracy of achievement."

Such national loyalty, he said, should be founded on an "American concept of the elite, not dependent on the inherited prestige of wealth or position, but rising from ability and character."

Tufts

Dr. Alexander Loudon, Netherlands minister at Washington, now a so-called man without a country, delivered the Commencement address as 530 Tufts and Jackson seniors received degrees today. Dr. Loudon himself was recipient of one of the nine honorary degrees awarded.

Among the most highly honored students was Miss Barbara Lee Richardson of Somerville, who won the only summa cum laude in the Jackson senior class. An outstanding student, she is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

A remedy for war was proposed by President Leonard Carmichael in his baccalaureate address in Goddard Chapel. Carmichael suggested development of an educational system to study human relationship with a view to eliminating aggressiveness and the psychological causes.

Dartmouth

Robert E. Sherwood, the playwright, was among nine distinguished men who received honorary degrees while Dartmouth College graduated 475 seniors. President Ernest M. Hopkins, in his baccalaureate address, lashed out against minority groups in college which "has defined its antagonisms to everything which our race has sought to establish for centuries past and for which it stands today."

At the same time, Hopkins assailed the intelligentsia of the country in general for believing that his nation has anything more than temporary immunity from the protagonists of force and brutality, race extinction and mass murder.

Bates

Gov. William K. Vanderbilt, of Rhode Island, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree by Bates College at its 74th commencement in Lewiston, Me., today.

President Clifton D. Gray awarded 17 masters degrees for post-graduate work, 54 bachelors degrees in arts and 24 in science to the 69 men and 50 women in the graduating class.

Brown

Brown University awarded its highest honor, the Susan Colver Rosenberger medal, to Chief Justice Fred T. Field of the Massachusetts Supreme Court at its 122d annual commencement exercises today in Providence.

The University awarded 358 degrees and conferred eight honorary degrees.

Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador to the United States; Felipe Alberto Esplá, ambassador for the Argentine Republic; and Dana Gardner Munro, director of the school of public and international affairs, Princeton University, were among those awarded honorary degrees.

Justice Field was cited for his judicial integrity, industry in pursuit of justice and unimpeachable character.

Radcliffe

With commencement activities launched by baccalaureate services at Radcliffe College, seniors today turned toward the lighter side of the graduations program. Scheduled tonight were Class Night ceremonies and dancing in the college yard, as well as singing of college songs for the last time.

Sen. Gibson of Vt. 'A Little Better'

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Senator Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont was reported "a little better" today. He is suffering from pneumonia and a grave heart condition.

His colleague, Senator Warren R. Austin, said Gibson had improved slightly. Gibson, 67 years old, was taken to a hospital on Wednesday.

BIG TEXTILE MILLS SAVED BY INDUSTRY

By HARRY CHOMES

The eyes of industry and business are still focused on the remarkable industrial rehabilitation operations of the Manchester business men who took over the Amoskeag mills property over four years ago, because today there are over 63 individual companies employing over 5000 people with a payroll equal to that of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. in 1935.

To review the history of the Amoskeag saga, in 1936 the great Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, greatest cotton textile plant in the world, had gone into bankruptcy and liquidation was ordered by the court.

A week before the auctioneer's hammer was to strike, a determined group of alert business men in Manchester were completing plans to obtain the 10 per cent cash deposit required for their bid for all the assets of the defunct mills.

FORM NEW COMPANY

This group formed a new company, Amoskeag Industries, Inc., with the purpose to save the tremendous manufacturing plant that was the future of Manchester. The city's business men were canvassed and over a half million dollars was secured, more than enough to cover the 10 per cent cash deposit needed for their bid of $5,000,000 to the liquidation trustees.

The additional money to complete the purchase of the mills was raised by virtue of a sale to the Public Service Company of ing to such an extent, that today the properties are about 60 per cent occupied by 63 companies averaging an annual payroll of over $4,000,000, and the prospect of several of the Manchester, N. H., once the seat of the largest cotton textile plant in the world, is rapidly becoming famous as a city of diversified industries.

Today 63 diversified manufacturing establishments and service organizations, employing nearly 5000 men and women with estimated payrolls of $1,250,000 annually, are housed in the property once owned by the Amoskeag

New Hampshire of the Amoskeag hydro-electric plant, the canal, turbine and water rights for $2,250,000 and a loan from Manchester's banks.

After the purchase was completed the new Amoskeag organization immediately embarked upon the task of selling and leasing plants to outside interests and organizing subsidiaries to carry on the various manufacturing operations.

With almost 7,000,000 square feet of space to rent, the company pursued a program of selling and leasing.

Alert manufacturers, confronted with the need for additional manufacturing space are turning to Amoskeag property in Manchester to satisfy their problem. Mindful of previous experience when over-building for current needs later caused financial grief, today's industrialist is seeking adequate floor space, at either low rental or purchase cost. Property that later may be turned over to the original owners, or re-sold without loss.

Over one-and-one-half million square feet of modern, well lighted floor space is still available in Manchester. The buildings, many with railroad sidings, are all in enclosed yards. All are of excellent brick mill construction, are heated and sprinklered. Paved streets, process steam, low cost power, unusually fine water are other attractions. Manchester's skilled and semi-skilled workers will welcome the opportunity of co-operating with new manufacturers. Before expanding, be sure to investigate AMOSKEAG!

Manufacturing Company, now owned by Manchester business-men under the name of Amoskeag Industries, Inc.

Yet, the problem that confronted these fat-tighted business men five years ago is still not entirely met, for over one and one-half million square feet of modern manufacturing space is still available to alert manufacturers.

DRIVE CONTINUES

An unrelenting drive to fill this space with payroll-building industry is being continued day and night.

Bearing in mind the woe attendant upon too great expansion on the part of any manufacturers during the hectic days of 1917 and 1918, the board of directors of Amoskeag Industries is now calling to the attention of industrialists their superior property for rent at low rentals, or for sale at prices that are considerably below the actual market value for such quarters.

The younger generation will not recall, but their parents will remember, the rush of new building when war and defense orders started piling up in 1917. Many manufacturers, because of the backlog of orders, put through huge expansion programs, only to find vacant space when the abnormal amount of business slacked to normal levels after the war.

And that's where Amoskeag Industries hope to fit in. For, they say, they have over 1,500,000 square feet of well lighted, high ceilinged, brick mill construction buildings. And in addition, another million feet of storage space.

FOR RENT OR SALE

This space, they point out, can be rented for long or short periods. Or, can be purchased at prices not much higher than the rental for an equivalent number of years.

Amoskeag construction was famous in New England generations ago. The buildings are of extra thick brick walls, high-ceilinged, with large windows and wide bays. In some of the available buildings straight-line production 1000 feet long is available.

In addition, a completely equipped worsted mill, built for modern production is ready for a manufacturer.

FINE LABOR MARKET

Since the formation of Amoskeag Industries, Inc. in the fall of 1936, the men behind the scenes have striven to interest a wide latitude of manufacturers in the space, and today's new industrialist will find himself in company with companies producing shoes or serving the shoe trade, clothing, rock wool, food stuffs, hardware, electrical meters, electrical controls and switches. In addition a number of companies are still maintaining the textile traditions of the city, with products ranging from cotton gauze and handkerchief cloth, to mop yarn, French yarns, rayon and mohair cloths and fabrics.

Manchester's labor market is one of the finest in the country, Amoskeag directors feel. Not only are there hundreds of semi-skilled workers available, but also trained men and women in the skilled classification, machinists, and the like.

Workers represent a wide range of nationalities, with employees of French-Canadian parentage in predominance. Other racial groups include persons of the following antecedents: British, Irish, Polish, Greek and Belgian.

Manchester five years ago was gloomily looking forward to the aspects of being a ghost city.

Today it is one of the largest shoe manufacturing centers in the country, in addition to being the largest manufacturing and industrial center in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. In population it ranks 113th in the nation, with a 1930 census figure of 76,834 and an unofficial 1940 figure exceeding 78,000.

MODERN BUSES

Within the past month buses of the most modern design have supplanted street cars and work is already progressing on removing the rails and resurfacing nearly 40 miles of streets.

When the city was laid out 100 years ago by engineers employed by the original Amoskeag Company, 17 parks and playgrounds were provided and at present two huge public swimming pools add to summer enjoyment.

Manchester is served by the Boston & Maine Railroad, connecting with Canadian National and Canadian Pacific lines to Canada and the West. In addition it is served by planes of the Boston & Maine Central Vermont Airways, B&M buses and Greyhound buses.

☐ The future of our communities depends upon the attitude of each and every one of its citizens toward the enterprises that produce the payrolls.

☐ Temporary periods of depression—in which all groups have had to share—have brought unfortunate recessions; yet always when the clouds have rolled by, the advance has continued upward.

☐ Nothing can be more responsible for an upward climb than the cooperation of workmen themselves and their willingness to form a loyal partnership with Capital and Management—the other groups which go to form industry.

☐ Community of interest between the owners of business and those who work for them have been the reason for America's great progress toward better living. No workman can expect to be finally successful unless the business he works for is successful.

☐ Remember, no one of these groups alone can start and run a business. The combined efforts of all are needed . . . to progress in the future we MUST HAVE MUTUAL COOPERATION—MUTUAL HELPFULNESS—and MUTUAL RESPONSIBILITY.

☐ Let us not forget that the progress of one is the progress of all.

TAX SITUATION

In regard to taxes for the City of Manchester, the Amoskeag Industries, the power company and the other enterprises operating in the mills at present are paying taxes sufficient to equal those of the old Amoskeag of 1935.

The men behind the Amoskeag Industries have won the admiration and the respect of the business world. They are primarily interested in the industrial growth of Manchester and the welfare of its citizens, and indirectly they benefit themselves in their own private businesses.

It has been misconstrued that those who invested money in this public spirited venture were destined to receive large financial returns. So far the investors have been paid back 25 per cent of their investment in paper, and have received no actual cash dividends.

Amoskeag Industries have progressed despite meeting many difficulties but there remains much more to be done and the men who backed the plan say they have not completed their work as yet; they are looking forward with the same faith and will continue to give the same effort that inspired them when they were faced with the loss of the principal industry of Manchester in 1936.

Dairy Co-Operative Shows Steady Gain

The Manchester Dairy System, a farmer-owned co-operative, was founded in 1923 due to a necessity for a market on the part of many producers for the Boston area, who lost their market when the North Wear branch of the B. & M. railroad was curtailed from daily trips.

With this staggering blow facing them, a nucleus of farmers formed the present corporation in order to provide a constant and daily outlet for their production. In seventeen years time, an idea as to the growth of the concern can be made by comparing a payroll of three in 1923 to a payroll of forty at the present time.

New Hampshire Park Opens for Season

"Pine Island Park in Manchester, N. H., has long been the setting for employees' outings," according to J. C. Williams, manager of the park. He urges all outing committees to make early reservations for the coming season. Just a few miles outside of the city, this popular resort with picnic grounds, swimming, boating, dancing and facilities for over 1000 diners, is officially open for the summer season.

HARRISON ABRASIVE CORP., MANCHESTER, N. H.
Oldest foundry in N. E. still in operation

HARRISON FOUNDRY HAS HISTORIC NAME

The foundry in the plant of the Harrison Abrasive Corporation in the Amoskeag at Manchester, N. H., is the oldest foundry in operation in New England.

At present this plant is producing steel abrasives which are widely used in the automotive industry and for stone cutting and finishing.

This foundry's colorful history dates back to the Civil War days when firearms and cannon were manufactured for the U. S. Army. During the Civil War the dire necessity of an iron clad warship for the Union Navy was aided considerably by this foundry when John Ericsson, the engineer, required the use of a large lathe to grind the ring for the revolving turret of the famous "U. S. warship Monitor. At that time the largest lathe in New England was located in the foundry and no time was lost through the use of this lathe in helping to complete the building of the Monitor.

After the Civil War the foundry was used in the manufacture of the famous Amoskeag fire fighting apparatus, locomotives, boilers and various kinds of machinery.

STEEL ABRASIVES

In a comparative short period the Harrison Abrasive Corp. has successfully utilized the facilities of this foundry in the manufacture of artificial abrasives. Various kinds of natural minerals have been used as abrasives since ancient times and only as recent as 60 years ago the first artificial abrasive plant was erected in St. John, New Brunswick, by the father of the president of the Harrison Abrasive Corporation.

Steel abrasives consist of round pellets or sharp edged particles and are called chilled shot and steel grit respectively. Chilled shot is manufactured in the various sizes that are desired for each particular process of finishing, and was originally manufactured for sawing and polishing marble, granite and stone.

Later it was used for the foundry and metal blasting trades as a place of sand, and today is universally used for this particular purpose because of the elimination of the dust hazard connected with sand.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS
Practically all automobile parts—gray iron and malleable iron castings and steel drop forgings—are finished with either shot or steel grit and the same applies to shells for war purposes.

The Harrison Abrasive Corp. is managed by its very active president, Nathan C. Harrison.

The following comprise the board of directors: Harry L. Addison, president, Merchants National Bank, Manchester; Samuel P. Hunt, banker and engineer, Manchester; Joseph W. Eppley, manufacturer, Manchester; Avers R. Schuler, vice president Public Service Company, New Hampshire; Benjamin R. Vauhan, member of Boston; Elmer B. Harrington, Lockport; Harold R. Collins, district sales manager, Rockford, Ill.; Clinton W. A. Smith, son, Nathan C. Harrison.

Yeloriipe Means Quality

The Yeloriipe label on all bananas can be attributed to Raco Theodore, who 30 years ago began his amazing business success as a vendor of bananas and vegetables from a horse drawn cart in Manchester, N. FRANCE GIVES UP... HITLER'S Virtually left to fight alone, a gallant France fell today.

It fell because it failed to read the handwriting on its Maginot Wall less than a decade ago.

Back in the theoretical thirties, an erstwhile paperhanger bluntly announced that the Versailles Treaty was "dead" as far as the Nazis were concerned.

Without mincing words, the war-minded dictator openly revealed Nazi intention of establishing military superiority in Europe by introducing general conscription. He began arming to the teeth.

France, long a political broth for too many cooks, failed to revise its menu. It failed to prepare for modern, streamlined war.

France was caught flat by the blitzkrieg.

Germany, achieving a unity of the nation under the lash of dictatorship, built up an armed force on land, sea, but mostly in the air. But not for preparedness. Rather, for invasion — an invasion built on fury and terror—the fury of motorized raids from without, the terror of Fifth Columnists from within, stukas (dive bombers) from above.

Ironically, France fell almost 21 years to the day which marked the signing of the Versailles Treaty. Also ironical — the irony of fate — was the fact that France itself had dictated the terms of that treaty, which became Hitler's springboard. He took off from there.

STRUCK FROM ALL SIDES

Tired France was being struck from all sides when the final blow came.

Gone was Paris, famed City of Light, a loss which helped in a small measure to take the heart out of the game Poilus.

Gone, too, was the Marne, the Seine, while the government itself was on the run, having quit Paris first for Tours and then for Bordeaux.

Unlike in the last war, it was unable to withdraw supplementary troops from the Italian border, for this time menacing Italy was on the other side. With Mussolini's men thus at its back door, France likewise was blocked in any attempt to bring its colonial troops from the near East.

Reynaud and Gen. Maxime Weygand optimistically had assured their countrymen that the new Weygand web would hold back the Nazis. But in a few short days they saw the might of the German Panzer divisions drive back their stubborn warriors until, at the last, France was left with only the Leine river as a defense.

And this was known to be strategically, one of her weakest defense positions.

But one of the most devastating blows of all came in the last-minute shift of power from Reynaud to Petain. Then for a time it looked as if Britain, for her own protection, would be forced to withhold more armed help for her ally.

England subsequently endeavored to pour refreshed Tommies and "Old Bills" into the slaughter, but what France needed they couldn't pull out of a magician's hat—weapons which would combat the blitzkrieg.

Finally, came the flanking penetration of the famed Maginot line itself, a defense fortification which the proud poilus had believed impregnable.

TOTAL COLLAPSE

Crowded thus against its own defense stronghold, primarily built to resist a frontal attack, fighting France saw total collapse of its vaunted military power.

Premier Reynaud first publicly acknowledged France's "mistake" on May 21 after the disastrous Battle of the Meuse. Then it was that France's army, built around a purely defensive Maginot line, moved forward—in an offense—to meet the Germans after invasion of The Netherlands.

The mistakes, Reynaud admitted, contributed to the terrific Allied attacks on the western front and gave the Nazis a thrusting point across the English Channel.

The man who had only recently replaced Daladier as Premier said then that the classical French concept of war had come up against something new — deep motorized raids and infiltrating backstabbing parachutists. Vital bridges had not been blown up. French forces, badly trained and badly entrenched, had been asked to stand up to the master blows of Germany's mighty Panzer divisions, supplemented by dive bombers.

NEW BATTLE CRY

With hardly a breathing spell, a battle-crazed Hitler

Germans in Paris—By radio comes this photo of German invaders parading past the Arc de Triomphe and the Unknown Soldier's grave... in the heart of Paris at the Place de L'Etoile. The arch commemorates the triumphs of Napoleon, by whom it was ordered built. Today, all of France was to surrender.

moved swiftly from the battle of Flanders, which saw the destruction of much-needed mechanized equipment or the Allies. His new battle cry, sounded on June 5, was "Paris within two weeks."

Meanwhile, Premier Reynaud, after the Battle of the Meuse, took Gen. Gamelin out of the picture, replaced him with Gen. Weygand.

All France—and a large part of the world—found new hope in the change, and looked to Weygand to perform a miracle.

Premier Reynaud particularly pointed to Weygand's new line of defense, the so-called quagmire defense. But septuagenarian Weygand had less than two weeks to strengthen France's new defense.

This was not enough, military observers said at the time, to organize a defensive position in depth, to allocate troops, to establish supply depots and railroad part—because they could not, heads, to organize communication and prepare obstacles and tank traps. On the political side, France

WEYGAND OUTGUESSED

Besides, it is significant in the light of developments that apparently the Nazi high command quickly recognized the Weygand strategy to be a desperate attempt to save Paris. At least, it was their claim as far back as June 8, that they had outguessed Gen. Weygand.

Once it was seen that Weygand revived the trench warfare system, the Nazis released "such a stunning blow" that the German push developed into another blitzkrieg.

In the broad outline, such was the military phase of the war, marked by the conspicuous absence of a smashing offense by the Allies, who for the most long has been known as a cradle of radical elements. It was the nation which gave the world the at-down strike, Socialists, Communists and other militant groups were constantly at each other's throats.

PLANE POWER COLLAPSED

One of the most damaging results was the almost total collapse of France's airplane building industry. In private hands, the plane makers maintained a schedule destined to make France a truly great power in the air, it is said. But when the industry was nationalized and wrapped with the resultant red tape, it was reduced to pitiful proportions.

Premier Daladier was tossed out. He had not prosecuted the war with sufficient vigor, it was said. As soon as Reynaud took up the premiership, other heads began to feel the ax of a politically nervous nation.

Germany, meanwhile, heard the jingoism of Hitler. By sacrificing food and other comforts for bullets and weapons of warfare, the Swastika was shipped into an enforced unity which led to the crushing of democratic France.

Thus, a dictator whom nobody had taken seriously for years reached the heights in bloodshed surpassing Caesar and Napoleon.

Now, he turns across the channel, his next objective.

ABANDON MAGINOT

With the fall of Paris and its being relinquished as an open city to save it from destruction, the weary French were driven back to take up a new stand in the Loire valley, while the Germans pushed down to take Le Havre on the coast and outflank the Maginot Line in the east.

Secretly, most of the Maginot's line half-million defenders were withdrawn, with the idea of placing them as reinforcements along the 200-mile front below Paris.

Even then, however, there were strong reports that France, exhausted by the long struggle against overwhelming odds, might decide to yield her soil to the invader, at least for the time being.

New and startling reports of Nazi progress came, with 20 fresh German divisions, having crossed the Rhine at Neufbrach—hitherto thought to be a suicidal move—reaching the outskirts of Vesoul, well behind the Maginot Line.

HITLER'S SWEEP

German advanced motorized units were reported to have driven over the Langres plateau from the north and into Vesoul from the Rhine on the east. The aim was to have German columns join and cut off the entire Maginot fortified zone from the rest of France.

Indicative of the great depth of German penetration, at least by advance units, Dijon, 175 miles southeast of Paris, and Auxerre, 100 miles from Paris in a more southerly direction, were reached by Hitler's men.

Not without enormous losses in men had the Germans won over this new territory.

Meanwhile the French cabinet was meeting on Saturday and Sunday, the while effecting a shift from Tours, sought as a haven after the abandonment of Paris, to Bordeaux on the coast.

To Premier Reynaud's appeal for greater aid from the United States, President Roosevelt had replied with assurance that America would redouble her efforts to supply the Allies with every form of material aid short of American military participation.

BRITAIN'S PLEDGE

Prime Minister Churchill and his British cabinet, with French Ambassador Charles Corbin attending, cast their promise of "full weight" into the balance to help France, with officials reiterating that Hitler would be fought to a finish.

It was emphasized that, even if French resistance broke on land, she still had an almost unimpaired navy, second only to the British fleet, in European waters.

This combined Allied naval force, it was asserted, was fully capable of continuing and enforcing the blockade against the enemy, which, it was reminded, had become more effective since Italy's entry into the war.

Rumors of an important break became stronger as the French cabinet met, recessed and met again yesterday. It was said that the interruption between the meetings was to give time to the cabinet members to weigh the import of President Roosevelt's latest assurances.

TIME BIG FACTOR

While full appreciation was felt, it was said, for the enormous resources of the United States, it was recognized it would take time to marshal them and gear them for war, while the cog of Hitler's strategy was bent to strike with all his existent superior force before Allied resources in their own empire and America could reach their peak of development.

In the past three weeks the British made a remarkable effort, shipping thousands of men and tons of materials to France

NAZI SOLDIER IN COPENHAGEN
After Hitler Took Over Denmark

despite heavy loss of equipment in Flanders.

Even so, it was recognized that with so many French armament factories in enemy hands, it was upon the British munitions that the defenders of France must rely immediately if the fight were to continue.

FORESHADOWED FALL

With all this in mind, the French cabinet again went into session—and out of the meeting came the momentous news last night that the Reynaud cabinet had fallen and that France had chosen 84-year-old Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, hero of Verdun in the World War, as premier.

It was commented upon that the fall of the Reynaud cabinet followed discussion of an apparently urgent message from Britain's Prime Minister Churchill, and there were reports that Churchill had flown earlier last night to France.

Whether Churchill and Reynaud had met there, however, was not revealed.

The switch from Reynaud, believer in continuing to fight the Nazis to the end, was viewed as an indication that the awesome decision had been made that France could no longer resist, on her own soil, the swarming legions of Nazi Germany.

And today, the voice of Premier Petain itself announced to the world that France must give up the fight, and that negotiations with the enemy "as between soldiers" had been entered into.

France is the ninth nation to succumb to the might of Germany in little more than two years.

The great Nazi offensive which culminated in the surrender was launched June 5 the day after the Germans completed their mop-up of Flanders with the capture of Dunkirk.

Nine days later Hitler's men legions marched into Paris and the swastika banners were unfurled over the palace of Versailles.

The Maginot Line withdrawal was the beginning of the end for the armies of France.

The train of events which led up to the outbreak of war last September began on March 11, 1938, when German troops marched into Austria without opposition.

The following March Hitler, defying threats of British and French resistance, took over Czechoslovakia without firing a shot. On Sept. 1, 1939, he ordered his armies into Poland, again defying Britain and France, who proclaimed a state of war with Germany two days later.

THEN LOW COUNTRIES

The Germans required less than a month to overrun Poland. Warsaw fell on Sept. 28 after a terrific siege that reduced the city to ruins.

On April 9, after a winter of comparative inactivity, the Germans invaded Norway and Denmark, meeting no resistance to the latter country. On May 10, they invaded The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Holland capitulated in four days and Belgium gave up the struggle 14 days later—on May 28, paving the way for the final defeat of the Allied armies in Flanders and the punitive German march on Paris.

The rapidity with which blitzkrieg methods accomplished the downfall of France amazed military experts, who before the war had rated the French army the best in the world.

Most observers believe the French made their greatest mistake in imposing too great confidence in the defensive strength of the Maginot line and in failing to adapt their strategy to the German lightning warfare.

NAZIS AIR FORCE

The maximum strength of the French army at the onset of the war was estimated at 6,000,000 men, including the air force. The latter was acknowledged to be far inferior numerically to the German air arm, considered the most powerful in the world.

France has an unbroken number of troops since 1914 in the Near East and her African possessions. Moreover, they will continue to fight, and will not retreat of her territories, even in the matter of capitulation.

France still has a total of 24,000 square miles of a population of 42,000,000.

Her colonies comprise over 4,000,000 square miles and a population of 100,000,000. These possessions remain.

In Asia: Siam, French Indochina, French Indo-China.

In Africa: Morocco, Tunisia, French West Africa, Togoland, Cameroons, French Equatorial Africa, Madagascar, Comoros and Saint-Paul.

BUNKER HILL DAY, patriotically observed today in Massachusetts, particularly in Charlestown, has seldom been more important or significant.

With hysteria afflicting so many supposedly intelligent men and women and emotions supplanting reason and common sense in minds that are ordinarily sound, it is proper and beneficial to recall the past and then to devote a few minutes to sober thought.

Certainly it is ridiculous to celebrate Bunker Hill Day without knowing what we are celebrating.

If it were merely an occasion for oratory, parades, fireworks and noise, we could select any convenient day, even April first.

Or we could save our money, conserve our energy and put away our cannon crackers for a really gala holiday later on when the weather would be cooler and our spirit more adapted to that sort of thing.

But it is not such an occasion. This is an outstanding day on the American calendar—a day that deserves all the distinct honors that we as a grateful people have scheduled.

Not far from the towering monument raised to their everlasting memory 145 Colonial soldiers and volunteers lost their lives 165 years ago today in a valorous attempt to repulse the invading British.

The battle may not have been so spectacular as the more modern "blitzkriegs" and long-range bombings, but what it lacked in "color" it certainly made up in its ability to influence later history.

Because these Colonists believed the New World could best attain its ideals of freedom and liberty by severing the ties that bound it to the Old World and because they unselfishly fought and died for that belief, the United States became a SEPARATE and INDEPENDENT nation.

It began as a democracy, not as a monarchy. It stood for equality, not for class rule. It favored no group to the exclusion or detriment of other groups.

One might almost say the men who fought at Bunker Hill never died. Their bodies turned to dust. But their noble ideals lived on and found immortality in the nation which today honors them.

At the cost of their lives they CREATED America.

We who enjoy all the blessings merely INHERITED it.

Let us remember that, especially when we listen to those who would have us squander the country's resources, sacrifice hard-won independence, plunge it into the European conflict and ignore its own defensive needs.

CATTLE COME FIRST and human beings take a back seat, Dr. J. Arthur Myers of Minneapolis, Minn., soberly advises the American Medical Association.

To prove his claim, Dr. Myers points out that less than one-half of one per cent of all the cattle in the United States now are infected with tuberculosis.

But in many localities almost 50 per cent of the people have it in either mild or "consumptive" stages.

Of course, we cannot take this authority's recommendation too literally.

Especially not in view of the fact that a few years ago thousands of cows were sent to slaughter houses or shot and buried on the scene when they were suspected of harboring the tuberculosis germ.

But we can fight this ancient menace more intelligently. We can encourage everyone who thinks he might have the disease to visit a hospital or a clinic.

And greatly increase the hospital facilities now in existence.

And possibly modern warfare, the human race has been plagued by tuberculosis in its many guises and forms since the dawn of time.

But what it takes exceeds a billion dollars annually.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -1- -1- MY DAY

ORANGE, NEW JERSEY, June 17—On Friday afternoon, the President and I went over to the 4 H Club encampment, which is held under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture every year.

I have usually had an opportunity to visit the camp, but it was particularly fortunate that the President could go over this year.

These young people come from all over the United States and they have gone through various competitions before they obtain this opportunity. It is the exceptionally able ones who are gathered here.

MY HUSBAND fully expected to find that the Secretary of the Interior had allowed them to bring to Potomac Park, their various prize calves, bulls and pigs, but the Secretary of Agriculture said that he had too much consideration for the Secretary of the Interior's feeling to ask for this permission.

I heard a rather amusing story told there. Lately they have put a group of domestic animals in the Zoo, and these attract more attention from the young visitors than the wild animals.

In the evening I attended the dinner and the jury trial staged by the Washington Youth Council. The subject was "Youth and the District Institutions."

I am sorry again to have to say that the District of Columbia can hardly have a clean bill of health where its contacts with youth are concerned. One can only hope that such efforts as these will finally

FINDS APPEALS FROM FRANCE "HEARTRENDING"
Mrs. Roosevelt Regrets We Can Do Little for Refugees awaken public opinion to the fact that the young people in the district are not getting a square deal.

I LEFT Washington on the midnight train and did various necessary errands Saturday, including an hour at the dentist, which can never be considered a very happy occupation.

In the afternoon, I motored out to my cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parish, in Llewellyn Park, Orange, New Jersey. This is a restful quiet household which seems far removed from the hurly-burly of ordinary life.

I am always happy to have the opportunity of being with Mr. and Mrs. Parish. It takes me back to the days of my girlhood, which seem at present very calm and far away.

THE APPEALS coming in from the women of France in the areas not already devastated, begging the women of America, through me, to do all they can to assist them, are heartrending when one can do so little.

It must be stark anguish when these women receive the refugees from other places, knowing that their own fate may be similar in the course of the few next days, and realizing that their men may never return.

On The Side -1- -1-

EVER SINCE that great editor told me every newspaperman should make an effort to understand women I have been doing my best. But I am getting discouraged. For instance, I read a letter in which a woman said she "loved a man but didn't like him." So I asked in this column was that possible? Now I receive a letter from a Chicago matron: "Certainly that could happen. My husband and I will soon celebrate our 20th anniversary. We have a lovely daughter. I have never liked my husband, but oh, how I love him."

THERE SHOULD BE one dollar mutual tickets sold at all race-tracks. And a three dollar straight, place and show ticket. Again I ask when are we sports fans going to form a Mice or Men Society and begin battling for our rights? . . . A Manhattan bachelor club is called the "Fugitives Club," the name inspired by thought they are "fugitives from a chain gang" . . . There are more than 150 fire-house dogs in New York City. All Dalmatians. These dogs follow the engines to fires. Their specialty is rescuing mammals and kittens.

I AM READING a Federal Writers' project book which gives a terrific boost to the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper. The book, "New York Panorama," of the American Guide series says in part: "Many well informed persons outside the labor movement now find it necessary or desirable to supplement their reading of the regulation newspapers with a perusal of the Daily Worker in order to obtain a balanced and comprehensive view of current affairs."

The salary of the man who wrote this was being paid by the United States Government!

MANY RESTAURANTS are called by their owners first name. "Theodore's" for example. Perhaps I could open a place called "Edgar's" and charge 40 cents for a cup of coffee. But I still favor the original idea which was to have a cafe, the floor of which is paved with silver dollars to be called "Silver Dollar" Durlings. I could be in personal charge of this, wear a big hat and be an interesting person.

IN 1936 the students of the University of California at Los Angeles staged a demonstration against military drill. They said they were against it. I suppose they figured on defending their homes and families against invasion with fly swatters and rolling pins.

The mentality of some modern college students is at the lowest point in the history of the country. As one man put it "the college campus of today is too frequently breeding an effeminate type of Cookie Eater."

"IN what year were women first permitted to smoke in restaurants and hotel dining rooms?" asks a client. You have me there, Ma'am. All I know is that in 1903 Mrs. Patrick Campbell started to smoke a cigarette in the dining room of New York's hotel plaza and the head waiter asked her to stop smoking or leave the place.

JUSTICE MURPHY HAS DOUBLE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, June 17.—U. S. Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy and Jim Moriarity, the famed host who now operates the Barbary Room, resemble each other very much. When Murphy went to the Philippines, Moriarity became accustomed to having people tell him: "We enjoyed seeing you in Manila," and Jim never would disillusion them. . . . When Murphy became Governor of Michigan, Moriarity would acknowledge greetings from strangers who called him Frank, and spoke to him about Detroit. And when Murphy became the Attorney General, Moriarity soon found strangers talking to him about Washington affairs. . . . But when his double was elevated to the Supreme Court bench, Moriarity decided no longer to permit this mistaken identity, and immediately corrected any impression that he was Murphy. Now, however, he is willing to continue the fiction, for he learned that when two men told Murphy, "Hello, Jim. How's the Barbary Room?" the jurist answered: "Fine. Just fine."

PAUL WHITEMAN

MUSIC DEPT.: Paul Whiteman went to Hollywood to appear in the Mickey Rooney movie, "Strike Up The Band." On the first day of shooting Whiteman blew up in his lines, and raged at himself: "Why did I come here in another man's racket. I do all right in my business, but now I come out here and try another man's racket. Did I need it?" . . . "Okay, Paul let's try the scene again," the director urged. . . . Whiteman turned to the director, and said: "Look, can you do this—beat out four beats with your right foot, an off-beat with your left, two to a bar with your right hand, and one-two a bar with your left?" Whiteman sat down, and did all this. The director confessed his inability to do it. "I thought so," was Whiteman's consolation. "Another man's racket."

BUSINESS DEPT.: An employee working for the Bureau of Standards in Washington rushed feverishly from his office and announced: "Success—after 20 years of experimentation." . . . "Good," he was congratulated. "And what have you found?" . . . "After 20 years," he gasped, excitedly, "I've found a cheap substitute for water."

LOCAL NEWS: Mrs. Vincent Sheean returned from England last week, via Montreal. . . . Robert Hutchins, the educator, didn't get the Washington job offered to him, because he wanted, as an inducement, a promise that the highest appointive post in America would be given to him, when the vacancy occurs.

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: Why wouldn't this be a perfect time to rally around Bob Quinn of the Bees? . . . The venerable master of the Boston National League ball club isn't selling two ace players if, short of missing some payrolls, he had an alternative. . . . It is true that the fans have rushed to the support of the same ball club on past occasions. . . . Boston admires and likes Bob Quinn; it likes the whole Quinn family. . . . The gesture that inspired this paragraph was something new under the sun. . . . Two baseball lovers of your reporter's acquaintance passed up the pass-gate at National League Field for the Sunday doubleheader. . . . They had decided to leave their season passes at home—and keep them there. . . . And they paid for their pews in the grandstand.

LEST THE VENTURESOME LADS who own or operate the supper and nightclubs become too complacent in the presence of truly amazing business for this time of year, this corner pessimistically advances the opinion that the rush will not continue. . . . It is too abnormal when a Saturday night in mid-June, and a hot one at that, finds every first-class spot in the city with a rignade and wallside draped with taleful of patrons. . . . But it was not only a "Saturday night rush." . . . From Monday to Wednesday inclusive the past week, the Mayfair grossed more dollars than for a corresponding three days at the height of the season when Joe E. Lewis (at $1250 a week), was being featured.

MR. LEWIS IS THE MOST POPULAR nightclub comedian Boston has enjoyed in the past two seasons. . . . The Mayfair's mid-June trade was present in these paying numbers without benefit of a single "name" attraction. . . . Similarly, the Ritz and the Sheraton Roofs, The Beachcomber and the Cocoonat Grove were riding high on a wave of black ink. . . . Two of these popular places, the Ritz and the Beachcomber, attracted this paying patronage by accenting the conga-rumba motif in music. . . . The Ritz' show was entirely Spanish-American, or Latin-American. . . . The Beachcomber too presented an all-south-of-the-border (if we except Maestro Frankie Ward who is only made up as a ghoul-swisher) show.

NONE WISHES TO DENY THE POPULARITY of the conga-rumba stuff at this time. . . . But crediting the remarkable business at both the Ritz Roof and the Beachcomber to this "good neighbor policy" would be a mistake. . . . The Sheraton, where Johnny Cole and his boys minimize the tango style of music, enjoyed one of its best weeks since Spence Sawyer opened his now-famous roof a year ago. . . . Many who cannot dance the tango, the conga or the rumba—and do not choose to learn—approve of such a policy. Or they say they do!

THIS WALLFLOWER IS NOT MOTIVATED wholly by a personal distaste for the overdone Latin-American dance vogue when he hangs out a warning sign. . . . In New York, where most dance and music

Alice Faye

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation
HOLLYWOOD, June 17.—Instead of "Down Argentine Way," Alice Faye will be "Down on the Wabash" as soon as she's able to work. "Wabash" will do for trutting laces what "Kentucky" did for flat racing and "Maryland" for the steeplechase. Alice will have three Academy Award winners to support her in case she's still feeling wobbly. They're Fay Bainter, Walter Brennan and Hattie MacDaniel. Brenda Joyce and Joan Payne will also be in the cast.

Young Payne seems to be doing a great deal better at 20th Century-Fox than he did at Warners. Zanuck is obviously sold on his value as a leading man. Apparently Parry also liked the combination of Payne, Joyce and Brennan in "Maryland," recently sneak previewed.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

"DEAR GLADICE"—The hand that gripped the scratching pen courageously formed this salutation, but then came haltingly to a stop. How should he begin? What should he say? Should he ask her gently, or should he race into this, creating a business-like impression. He was in a very awkward situation. He had never done anything like this before—in fact, all through his first three years of high school he never even bothered with girls. He was a man's man who spent his evenings at basketball games and boxing matches; his days he spent in school studying with great zeal and zest in hopes of some day becoming a lawyer. But that was before he met Gladice. She was awfully nice, and he just had to ask her gently, so that she would understand.

AGAIN HIS pen approached the paper and hesitating formed a few meaningless letters; then it touched the clean white stationery, but upon withdrawing it a moment later nothing was visible except a tiny black period. Well, that certainly was no way to begin a letter—especially a letter of such

Most of the American fifty per cent, incidentally, is contributed by the 278 pound Roma Vincent.

MR. VINCENT LINGERED around Chicago for months and months. He got as near to New York as the Boston Mayfair last December, and then his luck began to get good. Boston newswriters liked the bulky Roma very much, and wrote about him. His agent sold Mr. Vincent largely on the strength of his Boston entree (according to the grateful Mr. Vincent). Well, Roma has been nothing but a sensation at the Hurricane. Last week his engagement was extended via ten-week contract; and such a long night-club engagement is not usual.

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation HOLLYWOOD, June 17—If you are still following the dizzy saga of Orson Welles in Hollywood you can put Ruth Warrick down as the dark horse (or should I say brunette filly?) who will probably play the lead in "Citizen Kane."

With all the secretiveness of Charlie Chan the boy genius had the tall, refined, Irene Dunne-like actress fly to the coast last week and make tests. Henry Wilcoxon has also been testing for the second male lead and Gregg Toland has been definitely set to boss the cameras. Looks as if Orson ain't horsin' this time.

Gene Fowler has signed with M-G-M to write a story based on the life of Dr. Ephraim MacDowell, one of America's pioneer surgeons. Gene has been told to shape the yarn for Jimmy Stewart, although Jimmy can't possibly do it before late fall. MacDowell's tale is tremendously dramatic. If Your Ankles Swell You Can't Feel Well

Do your ankles swell, or are you tired and worn out a lot of the time with demit circles under your eyes? If so, the cause may be functional rather than organic or systemic. It may be due to non-organic or nervous and day cleaning and filtering excess acids and wastes from your blood. Because they never get a real rest it's easy to see that as you grow older the kidneys may get tired functionally and slow down. Then acids and wastes may accumulate and poison your system. So if your ankles swell or you have to get up nights or suffer blue rings, scanty or frequent passages, backache or nervousness, due to non-organic or nervous kidney or bladder troubles, you'll find relief in taking the prescription called Cystin. Because it has been so successful in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystin is sold under a positive guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystin costs only 50¢ per 30-day package and this guarantee protects you.

'I WAS AN ADVENTURESS' AT PARA-FENWAY THURSDAY

Elaborate Sets In Zorina Film

Because he is content with the very best of everything, Gregory Ratoff insists he is a man of very simple tastes.

Assigned to direct the beautiful Zorina in "I Was An Adventuress," which comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens on Thursday, Ratoff immediately asked Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck to put all the resources of the studio at his disposal.

"I had no intention of being extravagant," Ratoff explained. "As a man of simple tastes, I was not looking for elaborateness. I simply wanted to be certain what I did have would be of the very best—in keeping with the calibre of the leading players.

"Could I surround the gorgeous Zorina... with paper orchids or paste jewels? Could I ask the distinguished Richard Greene (costarred with her) to carry a substitute for the platinum watch and cigarette case the script called for?" he demanded.

At his insistence the jewelry shops of Hollywood and Los Angeles were scoured for the brilliant and costly gems worn by Zorina in the 20th Century-Fox production in which she stars by courtesy of Samuel Goldwyn. When the script called for a set to be decorated with orchids, Ratoff insisted that real orchids be used and that they be replaced by fresh blooms each day.

In addition, Ratoff who knows Europe better than most directors know Hollywood boulevard, was exceedingly painstaking in his efforts to create a swank Continental background for Zorina's activities. Not only did he re-create with remarkable fidelity the interiors of several luxurious European hotels and restaurants but, because the drama's characters are international, he asked for international actors and got not only Zorina, who is Norwegian and a Continental favorite, and the British Richard Greene, but also Eich von Stroheim, Peter Lorre, Sig Ruman and Fritz Feld.

Naturally Johnson was associate producer of "I Was An Adventuress."

The co-feature, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," is also a feature film. It features Johnny Downs, Peggy Moran and Broderick Crawford.

BEAUTIFUL ZORINA and Richard Greene share the top roles in "I Was an Adventuress," coming Thursday to the Paramount and Fenway.

26 NIGHT CLUBS GO INTO HIGH AS SUMMER ARRIVES

EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, JUNE 17, 1940

Gala Celebrations Planned for Tonight

By SAM BERENSON

Quietly summer comes to Cape Cod . . . the salt wind sweeps in from the sea, catching in its breath the white sails of the little boats now dotting the bays . . . swirls in-shore and across the towns, already newly alive with bikes and cars and sunburned girls in slacks and halters.

Morning thus turns into afternoon, and evening into the quiet salt-whipped night. For this is the Cape as it has always been since our first memory . . . the Cape which moves slowly and restlessly throughout the winter and only in the summer emerges in its fresh young beauty.

And because this is a column devoted to things of after dusk, we shall report that Lou Walters, too, is here . . . Lou with his encouragement of chefs, entertainers and decorators, all dutifully sworn to making the Cape Cod edition of the Latin Quarter at Old Silver Beach, West Palmouth, a marvel of joy and beauty.

That grand upwelling in attendance at the Coconut Grove may well be traced to the rolling roof, which just about doubles the pleasures of attending a Grove soiree . . . dining and dancing is amazingly comfortable here . . . Similarly does the smart Club Mayfair boast of a now-you-see-it-now-you-don't ceiling . . . and the coolness of summer evenings finds a good share of the gay-set on hand paying tribute to those excellent Mayfair revues . . . Purty Muriel Daniels continues to steal the show skyward on the Westminster Roof Garden . . . the current Revue packs a world of color . . . with the cheek-to-cheek inspired by the Jimmy McHale band . . . Johnny Cole's rhythm-making stop the Sheraton provides one of the most enticing of musical lures . . . Manager Sawyer announces that the roof will be open every Sunday . . . good news we think . . . The Latin tempo of the Enrie Madruega band makes gay the night at the Ritz Roof . . . Tom Maren reports that the Beachcomber continues to break all known records for attendance at a nitespot . . . this is one rendezvous that should be on your must list for a near-future date.

WINTON AND DIANE
Popular Dancers at Mayfair

Strictly according to summer custom, Izzy Ott should be cutting down on the entertainment menu at his colorful Grill Room . . . but contrary Izzy has, instead, rounded up a roster of new names for his famed El Tropic Room . . . always a standout show . . . Our turnabout dept: Two of Berlin Music Company's a ash tunes are "Imagination" and "Polka Dots and Moonbeams," authored by Jimmy "Darn that Dream" Van Heusen . . . (two years ago Jimmy was fired from this same outfit . . . for writing tunes on office time! . . . A grand opening, that of the Salisbury Frolics . . . a brilliant floor show, blending with the swing Henry Kalis rhythm and delightful atmosphere, gave first-nighters one of the merriest debuts held hereabouts in ages . . . But the melody lingers on: Dean Hudson doing an excellent job with George C. McKinnon's tunes—"You Set Me on Fire" and "You Let Me Down" . . . A posse to the Larry Cooper crew for the suave melodies poured forth at the Mansion Inn . . . Louis Friems with his rhythm a best bet at Revere Beach Frolic . . . The new Quincy restaurant scheduled for a banner Thursday opening . . . Paul Kade's will act as emcee . . . line-dolly Blanche Percy at the Salisbury frolic . . .

Another brilliant round of merry-making this week at Blinstrub's bustle Village, where sufficient "name" talent is on hand to warrant this an unmistakable must for your rattle roaming . . . top-billing goes to the Emerald Sisters, an amazing acrobatic team . . . Ray English, Kenney and Norris and others complete the gala bill . . . Warm weather has brought a resounding rush of business to the S. S. Steel Pier . . . this chateau is a prime favorite with young and old alike . . . the Miami Grove features new revue this evening, fore-fronted by Frank Fontaine . . . dancing with Ernie Bell and his orchestra . . . Col. Rudy Bauer emerges . . . for delicious, delectable barbecued chicken we recommend the Hit-Hat . . . open until early hours of morning . . . Mayfair's new show opening Wednesday has . . . Marjorie Knopp Winton and Diane, the Music Hall boys and Lew Bonick and orchestra . . .

Bossman Joe Wrenbach of the Lawrence Hofbrau phones us that the week's floor show—wherein the spotlight flutters from one Broadway toponother to another—is one of the Hofbrau's very best . . . seating capacity here soars up to 1200 . . . Paragon Park in full swing for its 51st season . . . it is one of the most ideal amusement centers of any resort on the Atlantic coast . . . starting the 231 Manager George Stone plans to launch a lavish display of aerial and circus acts . . . Patricia McKenzie is the featured thrush this week . . . the Ribby's Alston . . . Ruby Foo's Den air-conditioned throughout . . . Noreen & Jimmy Bell a smooth-footed duo due for a nice round of applause at the Dorgan Old Harbor House . . . Ginger (Ducky) Waldron stays on at the Old Fashioned Cafe in downtown Boston . . . this young lady is tops in her line and probably will remain here for some time . . . appealing entertainment at the Steuber, Vienns rooms makes this hostelry one of the more popular of spots hereabouts . . . cool and comfortable . . . a sparkling new show moves into the popular Crawford House tonight . . . Dorsey sisters come to the Hotel Essex to headline as attractive an offering as the grill has presented all season . . . this trio of harmony hits town bearing a slight reputation . . . Cappy continues to play host to a jamed nightly house . . .

EVENING AMERICAN MONDAY, JUNE 17, 1940

By BETTY ALDEN

THE THUD of fast flying hooves of Yale and Princeton polo ponies resounded on Harvard's new polo field on Governor W. Cameron Forbes' Westwood estate Saturday, as the Elis and Tigers played in the finals of the national intercollegiate polo championships . . . and a predominantly Harvardian audience gave the Eli winners a hearty cheer as a big loving cup of champagne was passed around to the Yale team and victory trophies awarded to each player . . .

The game was really a forerunner of Harvard's Commencement activities and the many families and girl friends here for graduation had an opportunity to see the hard riding Harvard poloists in a consolation game which they played with Penn Military college after the championship had been decided . . .

The famous Dillingham family of Honolulu, whose name is practically synonymous with polo, was well represented among the fans and Gaylord played on the Harvard team . . . Tim Clark, one of Boston's outstanding poloists, attended with his brother, Nat, and their wives . . . blonde Mrs. "Tim" in a pretty strawberry pink linen frock and Mrs. Nat in natural linen with luggage tan accessories . . .

George C. Rices Entertain

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE C. RICE shared their box with Mrs. William S. Youngman, Jr., who looked particularly lovely in Mayflower pink with a matching hat . . . Mr. and Mrs. Allan Forbes joined the throng of spectators after attending the wedding of their niece, Esme de Menocal, to Sheperd Brooks, in town . . . They were accompanied by their polo playing son, Bennet, and his wife (Betsy McKean), Allan, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. S. Tudor Leland (Phyllis Forbes) . . . a recent bridal couple . . .

Mrs. Forbes carried a flowered parasol with her striking bobonet and white linen outfit and matching purse, and Phyllis was attractive in a flowered silk dirndl with a matching bandana tied peasant fashion under her chin . . .

Mrs. Gaspar Bacon shielded her face from the sun with a gay red and white polka dot parasol . . . She was dressed in a summery blue and white printed silk with rainbow heels on her wedgie slippers . . . Former Lt. Gov. Bacon was with her . . . Their son, Gaspar, Jr., who was a "leading lady" in so many successful Hasty Pudding shows during his undergraduate days at Harvard, is devoting his time to plans for the summer season at the Bass Rocks Theater which opens in a couple of weeks . . .

Dick Prestons Join Polo Fans

MR. AND MRS. DICK PRESTON came up from the North Shore to join the polo fans and Mrs. William B. Rogers, attractive in rose chambray spectator sports outfit with a plaid linen hat, joined the huge circle of fans watching Gov. Forbes and B. Nason Hamlin pick the champion ponies of the game . . .

Linen was the choice of both Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Fiske . . . the former in a natty white suit and Mrs. Fiske in violet linen with a matching hat . . . Paul Fox, George Swift, Jr., Dorothy Storer, Patricia Bayne, Marileeds Heard, Sue Sweetser, Sylvia Winsor and Darby Almy were still others in the packed grandstand . . .

Aristos Club Greets Heads

Newly elected officers and members of the board of directors of the Aristos Club for the 1940-1941 season were presented to the club at the League House. Guest of honor was the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael J. Spillane.

Mrs. Charlotte O'Donnell of Medford is the new president. Miss Claire Roney, East view president; Mrs. Frank A. Murphy, second vice-president; Miss Madeline Griffin, treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Corr, secretary.

Second year board members are the Misses Alice Brandstedt, Katherine Doherty, Mary Donnellan, Ruth Hennessey, Helen Joyce, Marion McAuley, Aileen McSweney, Helen O'Connor, Ednah Padden, Margaret Rieley, Mary Seannell, Mildred Shea, and Mrs. Ann Curtin Conway.

Newly appointed board members are the Misses Helen M. Brown, Esther Cahill, Mary Kelly, Alice Mulhern, Catherine McCarthy and Mrs. Gertrude Butler.

North Shore Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lincoln Pierce and two children of Brookline have opened their summer home at Marblehead, where they are established for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herrick, Jr., and family are settled for the summer at their Prides Crossing estate, Overton, in the hilly, wooded section overlooking the ocean. Virginia Backus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stundish Backus of Grasse Point, Michigan, and a popular member of the country set on the North Shore will make her debut at an evening garden party at Grasse Point July 1, before coming on to Wendeck her parents' summer estate in Manchester.

MARGARET REID ENGAGED TO WED

Mrs. David H. Reid of W. Weston has announced the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, to James J. Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel P. Kelley of West Roxbury. Miss Reid is a graduate of Roxbury Notre Dame Academy and of Trinity College.

Sunday weddings are all too few on Westwood's social calendar but a very picturesque one took place in Weston yesterday when Margaret Morton became the bride of Dr. Walter H. Stockton of Brookline in the Most Holy Chapel of the First Parish, Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. Samuel Morton of Weston, wore a gown of ivory satin with a deep red collar and to an empire. Her train, in white, and carried a bouquet of white summer flowers.

Rev. Moses Harrison, Jr., presided over the ceremony before a small but select group of white flower girls and bridesmaids. Mrs. Paul S. Morton, sister of the bride, was a part of the wedding party with a white dress and bouquet of white flowers and roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Margaret J. Kelley, daughter of Dr. Kelley, and Misses Helen J. Kelley, daughter of Dr. Kelley, and Misses Helen J. Kelley, daughter of Dr. Kelley, and Misses Helen J. Kelley, daughter of Dr. Kelley.

Cum gratia E. E. Speakman, Jr. of Wilmington, Del., was best man, and the ushers included two of Dr. Stockton's associates in the medical profession, Dr. Charles E. Swenson and Dr. Clifford G. Green of Boston, and Gayard Sharp of Wilmington, Del.

The reception was held at the Weston Golf Club. After July 15 the couple will live in Boston. Dr. Stockton, son of Mrs. Gertrude H. Stockton of Zurich, Switzerland, attended the University of Heidelberg in Germany and the University of Paris, France. The bride is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College.

MALDEN GIRL TO BECOME BRIDE

Mrs. Marshall Norwood Barr of Malden announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Virginia Marshall Barr to George B. Steers, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Steers of Newing.

Mrs. Barr is a graduate of Malden high school and Miss Steers is a graduate of St. Michael's Secretarial School. Steers is a graduate of Newton High and Norwich University, is associated with the Boston Marine Corps.

Pineapple Cubes Help Make Many Desserts

By MARTHA LEE

For easily prepared desserts with refreshing flavor keep on hand in the refrigerator this summer a supply of tangy canned pineapple cubes. They are delicious spoon-size chunks of pineapple and are good served well-chilled and right from the can, of course, but they also lend palate appeal to other fruit combinations.

When the mercury rises too close to the top of the thermometer for comfort in the kitchen, try any of these tantalizing dessert combinations. Each one takes but a few minutes to prepare.

PIEAPPLE COMBINATIONS

Top well-chilled pineapple cubes served in sherbet cups with a firm scoop of mint, lemon or strawberry sherbet. Sliced strawberries, pineapple cubes and a little syrup strained from the can, topped with dopped mint leaves is another attractive combination. Red raspberries may be substituted for the strawberries.

ISLAND DESSERT

For company dessert on a very warm evening, serve island dessert. Fill meringue shells with raspberry sherbet. Top with well chilled and thoroughly drained pineapple cubes. Serve at once on individual plates garnished with grape or geranium leaves. Six meringue shells, one quart of sherbet and one 11-ounce can of pineapple cubes will serve six.

PIEAPPLE TRIFLE

Pineapple trifle has been created especially with the children in mind. To prepare, merely top squares of sponge cake with thoroughly chilled and well drained canned pineapple cubes. Cover with chilled soft custard and garnish with a cube of currant jelly.

SWEET BITS

Dry canned pineapple cubes with absorbent paper, dip in whipped cream and roll in crushed toasted macaroon, cake or cookie crumbs. Serve five or six on a paper doily on a dessert plate. They are also delicious served in a sherbet glass and topped with whipped cream.

MYSTERIES

Stuff dates, steamed dried figs, or prunes with pineapple cubes. Dry thoroughly with absorbent paper. Wrap in strips of thin rich pastry—plain or cheese—cut just large enough to cover fruit. Pinch edges together. Bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) 20 to 25 minutes. For less sweet "mysteries" omit dried fruit, dip cubes in powdered sugar, wrap in cheese pastry and bake. Serve hot or cold.

OTHER DESSERTS

Other quickly prepared desserts in which pineapple cubes star for warm weather include fruit cups prepared with fresh fruit or berries in season. Favorite combinations include well-chilled pineapple cubes and melon balls sprinkled with chopped mint. Add a dash of cold ginger ale just before serving.

Well-chilled pineapple cubes combined with fresh or frozen raspberries dusted with powdered sugar is a frosty treat. Blackberries or halved strawberries may be substituted for the raspberries.

Martin Pattern

Pattern 9419 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 18 requires 4 1/2 yards 35-inch fabric and 5 1/2 yards braid. To get this pattern send fifteen cents to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th st., New York, N. Y. Ten cent additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Monday, June 17

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are the possessor of a magnetic personality; keen of wit; an interesting companion, though not a ready listener. Talented, receptive to knowledge; impatient with details; quick and almost erratic at times in action. Concentration and patience are your big needs. You respond to intelligent reasoning. Plan your course of action early and carefully, then pursue it aggressively with all the resources at your command.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 74.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is orchid.

Send 15 cents and large self-addressed stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston Evening American, Box 2234, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide and lucky calendar for the first six months of 1940, giving the day and month you were born.

Manners

4 O'Clock Wedding

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN: To a church wedding at 4 o'clock, with a reception following at the bride's home, what type of dress should I wear? And should the men wear business suits or Tuxedo suits?

E. N.

To this afternoon wedding you should wear your "very best" day dress or suit—street-length skirt. Most important are good-looking and correct accessories—hat, gloves, purse and so forth.

A tuxedo suit is not correct for a day-time wedding. If the men don't wear formal day clothes—cutaway coats, dark striped trousers and appropriately formal accessories—they wear business suits, preferably dark blue.

Show Code For Models

By ANNICE BRINK

GRADUATION'S at hand... and the long lists of academic students are augmented by the newly-sprung up model's schools... where comprehensive courses aim to tutor one for beauty as well as for brains... so it seems apropos to give some of the best of a famous model school... to be heeded by any girl graduate who'd like to up her charm.

It's suggested that, at graduation as well as at a fashion show, you don't start on the platform out of breath—you'll probably stumble and lose your poise. Pause a moment, take a deep breath, lift your diaphragm, straighten your shoulders, raise your head high as if you were wearing a golden crown and proceed.

Don't stand feet apart after on a platform. Whenever you pause be certain that your feet are together, or on a straight line, one before the other. Only washerwomen and ducks stand with feet astride.

Don't walk as if you were window-shopping; on the other hand, don't scam as if you were rushing in the subway. Remember that you are going to an important event.

Don't make meaningless gestures with your hands, like Zazu Putts. Let them fall naturally and if you like, swing your arms slightly from the shoulder, keeping the elbows straight but not stiff.

Don't "mince"... take good strides, moving from the hips; but don't lope either.

Don't grin, but for heaven's sake, don't look bored.

Don't wash your face, make-up or costume in public. Be sure everything is right before you leave the dressing room, then forget all about it at the ceremonies.

FRANCES WALKER TO BE AUGUST BRIDE

Francis Baldwin Walker, post-deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Walker of Concord, will be married in August to Frederick M. Schaefer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Schaefer of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The future bride graduated from Beaver County Day School, made her debut the winter before last and belongs to the Junior League.

Love

And Marriage Shall He Send Flowers?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I don't know her very well, but that doesn't prevent me from loving her from afar. She is graduating in a little while, and I want to send her some flowers. Would it be all right? Or would I seem presumptuous? She hardly knows of my existence, and still, every waking moment, I am aware of her.

UNRECOGNIZED.

I never saw the girl yet who wouldn't be pleased with an offering of flowers at her graduation. Perhaps you're not as unknown to this young lady, as you imagine, and the flowers may be the means of turning her thoughts in your direction.

This will also answer a young man concerned about sending flowers to a girl of his acquaintance.

By all means send flowers, unless, of course, the girl has told you she never wants to see or hear from you again, and her father may even have gone beyond that in discouraging your suit. It used to be known as "loosening the dog."

GINGHAM and informality... that's the idea for summer... and it's going to be a bare-back, bare-arm and bare-leg season... as Kathryn Adams shows you, or could it she'd take off her jacket and show her backless sunning frock... so you have to be sure there is no marring of body smoothness by superfluous hair. Today Arline Gould tells of a brand new, easy, fragrant hair removing lotion!

Hand-Woven Accessories Are Dainty

SIMPLE TO WEAVE

What a lift to a Summer costume is given by this belt and bag ensemble!

Made of light blue linen, it's strikingly decorated with woven motifs of stylized pearl cotton in poppy red and cornflower blue. And there are other color combinations as smart. If yours is a white costume decorate with motifs of apple green, violet.

The trick of making these pretty decorations is to weave or "darn" over the cloth, catching both warp and weft to the fabric only along edges of the design.

First pencil triangles at the top of the flap of your bag, then put in blue warp threads with darning needle, going up and down as shown in Diagram 1. Now begin darning, over and under, as in Diagram 2. Use red cotton for the first few rows to make a "pebbled" red and blue border across the top of the bag and complete the triangles with blue weft.

In weaving the border for the flap's edge use red cotton for warp and weft. The triangle designs on the belt you weave as you do the triangles on the bag.

Complete Directions and diagrams for these and dozens of items are given in our 40-page booklet, Beautiful and Useful Articles You Can Easily Weave.

Lotion Ends Hair Worries

By ARLINE GOULD

EACH ONE has to solve her own superfluous hair problem in her own way... and never has there been in existence so much scientifically improved wherewithal... so that any girl who continues to resort to a razor deserves being called an out and out dope! It's definitely unglamorous... the results are bad... the bristles are ugly to see and touch. And it is absolutely unnecessary.

The latest star to rise on the horizon of safe, pleasant, fragrant depilatories is brand new in form as well, because for the first time it comes in a lotion! It is a milky, controllable liquid that spreads exactly where you want it.

When we say it is pleasantly scented, we put it in the class of any fragrant cream or lotion you've ever known. It is not lightly perfumed to hide a bad odor, because there is no bad odor!

It comes in an attractive frosted bottle all dolled up with blue and white tassels, and you can keep it right on your dressing table.

To be used on the body alone, because for facial hair removing there are other recommendations, equally excellent. For your vacation luggage, the size is perfect, but you should have on hand the larger one for week in and week out use at home.

With it is a sponge applicator, attached to the cap. This is used to smooth on wherever you want to be smoothly guileless of a single strand of hair... and it may be used on the armpits, too.

Smooth it on... wait the required short length of time... and then wipe away the lotion and the hair with it. The hair will have been removed just below the surface, so there is no hint of its existence, actually!

If you'd like to learn all about this new fragrant depilatory in lotion form, phone Arline Gould, LIberTy 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There Are No Flies on Them

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS A YEAR MAN
—He has learned he can now live comfortably on $10 a week, but he can't find a $10 job. His age is 45. He will do anything short of murder, arson, burglary, etc. He is no salesman, however. X-127.

That classified ad cost him a dollar and a quarter and as Simon Willoughby strolled down McAlister street to Market the following Tuesday morning he wondered if it was worth it. He was neat and shabby in a worn suit of rich brown texture that had set him back $100 three years ago. The white shirt was clean, as he had washed and ironed it himself Monday. It was the only one he had.

Any replica of "X-127" he asked the vicarious blonde behind the marble counter of the classified advertising department.

Just a moment, please," and she walked back to a desk in the rear, whispered something to a man sitting there. He picked up the telephone. The girl returned to the counter, began fanching with envelopes in a pigeonhole. It wasn't surprising when some one touched his arm, a woman's voice spoke.

"Aren't you Mr. Williams?" "That's the name I give," he smiled, "when I inserted an advertisement in your paper the other day."

"Would you mind coming upstairs, Mr. Williams?" she was a little thing, in a trim, gray tailored suit.

"Not a bit, Miss."

"Miss Burton—Sally Burton. I'm a reporter."

"I thought you were."

Just then the blonde behind the counter handed him a handful of letters; there must have been 50 of them in that stack.

"There's your mail, Mr. Williams. You guys got a lot of it."

The high-arched elevator whisked Willoughby and Sally Burton to the third floor, where they strolled past a receptionist.

"Mr. Williams, this is Mr. Bessford. The city editor."

Willoughby sat down, and the Burton girl moved over to a desk in a far corner of the newsroom. The city editor was an short young man, with a pleasant face.

"Of course my name's not Williams," said Willoughby. "It was the first thing that popped into my head when I put in that blind ad."

"ON MY OWN."

"That makes no difference," said Bessford. "But it was an unusual ad, and drew results. We may be able to help you; certainly, we can give you a voucher if you'll let one of our reporters, say Miss Burton, go along with you when you contact some of these people who write in."

"No, I appreciate it, Mr. Bessford, but I'm on my own."

"Well," commented the city editor philosophically, "that's that. We won't spy on you, anyhow; won't try to discover your identity."

"I'm Simon Willoughby," ventured the visitor. "I used to be a copy writer for the Baker-Crandall Agency, but I lost out on that merger two years ago, and haven't been able to catch on since. Before I came here in 1930 I worked in New York. But that's all off the record."

"Certainly, Mr. Willoughby. How would you like to borrow a desk while you sort out that big stack of mail?"

"That's very kind of you."

Out of fifty-four responses, Willoughby within an hour had eliminated all but ten. Some were from cranks, others from firms seeking salesmen. Willoughby decided first to call upon Mr. Burton Goodspeed, after first telephoning and making an appointment, per instructions.

Mr. Burton Goodspeed had an imposing suite of offices in a Montgomery Street skyscraper. The job-seeker was admitted at once. Mr. Goodspeed proved to be one of those handsomely-groomed men of forty, eminently successful from the skin out.

"I just wondered," said Mr. Goodspeed, "if you were a C. P. A."

Willoughby did a little wondering himself. Why didn't the head of this big accounting firm make that inquiry when Willoughby telephoned?

"No, sir," Willoughby replied. "I'm an advertising copy writer."

"That is unfortunate, as it happens I do not need the services of an advertising man," said Mr. Goodspeed, a trifle pompously. "I thought if you were a C. P. A., I might use you, although, of course, not for a mere $10 a week. I would pay you just what I have been contemplating offering a young fellow out of Stanford—$150 a week."

"I think you'd better hush that young fellow from Stanford, Mr. Goodspeed," said Willoughby, rising. "Thank you for seeing me."

"Oh, not at all, not at all. And good luck to you, Willenkrank."

The round-trip bus ticket has been eighty cents, but the telephone call cost him nothing. Mrs. Forbes had insisted in her very promising note that he reverse charges on the call.

"I'm quite sure Mr. Forbes and I can use you," she had told him over the phone. "We'll pay the customary $75 a month plus your living expenses."

MRS. FORBES' OFFER

He had to walk nearly three miles when he got off the bus to the Forbes mansion, set in well landscaped acres. He was admitted by an aging butler, Willoughby observed a troubled look about the old fellow's eyes.

"I have an appointment," he said, "with Mrs. Forbes."

"Yes, I believe she's expecting you," said the butler. "You're Mr. Willoughby?"

"That's it."

"Please come this way, sir."

If the entrance hall resembled a mausoleum, the room into which Willoughby was now admitted was one of monastic splendor. The visitor waited only a few minutes before an ampie-bosomed woman came into the room and established him in his place immediately. She put him through the traces and an experienced man, but Mr. Forbes and I agreed to try the experiment of training a new butler to our own way of doing things."

"You say Johnson has been with you 20 years?"

"Yes, Willoughby. But he's outgrown his usefulness."

"You are pensioning him?"

"Oh, no, that isn't at all necessary. However, we are willing to give him a month's dismissal pay."

"I'm afraid I don't want the job, Mrs. Forbes."

She arose indignantly. He was on his feet, too.

"So, you're too good to be a servant, after all?"

"No, Mrs. Forbes. If necessary I'll dive for pearls, as the saying goes, in a cheap restaurant, provided I don't throw some veteran dishwasher out of employment. Good day, madame."

"FREE REPLY"

There was always something the matter. The owner of an apartment house who offered him living quarters in the basement wasn't willing to pay any salary for doing the janitorial work.

"How do you expect your janitor to eat?"

The landlord shrugged his shoulders.

"I read your ad," he said. "This basement flat is worth $10 a week of anybody's money. There's hardly any work to do."

"But you said the janitor had to be available at all hours."

"Yeah, but he's not working more than two or three hours a day. He's got the rest of the time to himself."

"Chained to a telephone, waiting for squawks from the tenants?"

"You're just like the rest of the bums," said the landlord. "Always wanting something for nothing."

The head of a firm of house wreckers looked him over.

"You don't look like you got much muscle."

"I'm in good health."

"Well, I'll put you on as a helper. Got your work clothes with you?"

"Work clothes? These are the only clothes I have."

"You can't wreck no houses in them duds. Get hold of some heavy shoes, so you won't run nails in your feet. And overalls."

"I'm down to my last dollar."

"Ah! I'm supposed to cry out loud about it! Maybe you want me to loan you five bucks for an outfit. Just another touch. Get the h— out here. I ought to have known'd better than to fall for that add in the first place."

Wearily, he trudged homeward, resting at the library for a couple of hours. He decided to invest fifteen cents in a plate of beef and some coffee in Molly O'Brien's little lunch car around the corner from his shabby rooming house.

It was after dark, and he was surprised to see the friendly woman behind the counter at that hour.

"Where's Phil?" he inquired, after giving his order.

"The heathen quit on me," she replied. "Quit last night, without no notice."

"You're not going to try to work both day and night shifts, are you, Molly?"

"I should say not, Mr. Willoughby. I'm answering an ad about a fellow who used to get $10,000 a year."

Willoughby had a sudden thought.

"What did you pay Phil, Molly?"

"Ten a week, the ungrateful scamp, with Sunday's off and the grub he could stow away, which was plenty."

"Ten a week," mused Willoughby thoughtfully. "Now, Molly

BREWSTER, BARROWS, PAGE KEEN

PORTLAND, Me., June 17 (AP)—

A campaign carried on under the shadow of world-shaking war news ended today as polling-places opened for Maine's primary election for major office nominations.

Except in one congressional district, Democrats had no contests for major office nominations.

Chief among Republican contests was the U. S. Senate fight between Gov. Lewis O. Barrows and U. S. Rep. Ralph O. Brewster.

Veteran political observers saw as "a horse race" the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination among Senate President Summer Sewall, Frederick G. Payne, may of the capital city of Augusta, Blinn W. Page, Shoghan banker, and Roy L. Fernald, former State Senator from Winterport.

Winner of the Barrows-Brewster battle will oppose former Governor Louis J. Brann, drafted by the Democrats, for the seat held by retiring U. S. Sen. Frederick Hale (R.) for 24 years.

Fulton J. Keddam, Portland newspaper columnist, is the unopposed gubernatorial candidate of the Democrats.

U. S. Reps. James C. Oliver and Margaret C. Smith, each had opposition in the first and second districts, respectively.

HOW YOU CAN BORROW $100 IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $61 A MONTH

Do you want to get a cash loan quickly and simply? At Household Finance you can borrow $20 to $300 without endorses or guarantors. If you can make regular monthly payments. And you needn't even leave your own home to apply for the money you need. You may repay your loan on the installment plan which best fits your own purse.

Choose your own payment plan

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. It shows also made in other amounts and for other periods. Note that you may make very small payments if you wish. Note also that the same you repay, the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.58 each, or a total of only $106.32, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. Payments shown in the table include all charges.)

What you do to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is to require us of your problem. We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly and simply.

Study the loan and payment table. Then come in or telephone most convenient office for full information without obligation.

AUSTEN LAKE

Bob and Tom: Rich-Man Poor-Man Comparison

THERE ARE ALL KINDS OF HEADACHES, little ones that pulse inside the skull like the internal drip of a leaky kitchen tap, and big ones that scorch the brain like the blast of a mental blow torch. And then there is the super kind of a headache such as the Bees have caused Bob Quinn and for which there is no sedative or pill. For, even in his bluest, pre-season funk, when Bob was nursing stomach cramps induced by the uncertain future, he did not foresee that the Bees would greet mid-June in the league's coal hole.

AUSTEN LAKE

He had said, one evening last March, as we sat under the Manatee river palms, "This club has trained better than any Bees squad I've taken South. It ought to go places."

If by "going places," Bob meant slipping toward the sub-levels of the standing, then he was an unerring prophet. But he intended something else.

So last week, needing spot cash to meet his bills, Bob sold some pieces of his heart to Pittsburgh and the Giants. He did it sadly! For in the older days Bob posed more as the head of a commercial amusement house than he did as an indulgent daddy of a beloved baseball family, every member of which was near and dear. Thus when he parted with Al Lopez and Tony Cuccinello he shed a paternal tear and said, "Boys, if fortune fails elsewhere you can always come home." And he meant it!

NOW AT 70 AND AFTER FIFTY-ODD years in the mercurial profession called baseball, Bob is starting from scratch again. Financial thunderstorms hang over the Bees like the mountain scene in Rip Van Winkle, while, ironically the scene across Commonwealth avenue, where Bob once tossed the ragged pants Red Sox, is all summertime, childhood, light and laughter. There today while gardeners comb the green turf Eddie Collins sits in the offices where Bob Quinn used to utter soul moans over his fiscal clip-sheets and fiduciary reports. The outlook for Eddie is serene with plenty of Yawkey-held spending cash and rosy profits.

Gloom, in the old Quinn day, used to dwell on the south side of Commonwealth avenue when the Red Sox were the ashman's daughters and the Braves were fortune's darlings. But now the dowdy old frump has switched to the South side while the fickle maid has rhumba-d north, spanking her girlish hips and flashing her toothbrush smile.

So what to do while the wolf howls in the Bees' vestibule? Why, do as the Phillies have been doing for years. Do as Connie Mack did with his penny-poor world champions. Catch 'em young, grow 'em up, and sell 'em on the hoof! It may not be Bob's natural system, but it is his necessity. The Boston people won't buy into the ball shows and, as he contemplates his empty acres, he has no alternative. For the Bees can't live on their gate receipts and unlike Tom Yawkey, Bob has no bins full of surplus funds. Indeed, frequently this year Yawkey would call clear across the country on the telephone to ask Phil Troy what happened in the day's game. And Troy, having a commercial mind, would say, "Well we had 9000 paid. . . " to which Tom would say 't'ell with the "paid," who made the hits for our side and did Fozzie or Ted belt any homers. Quinn never said "Tell with the paid!" He never had much "paid."

OVER THE YEARS QUINN HAS BEEN 95 per cent sensible and 100 per cent upright—a man who has borrowed millions on his face and, winding up broke himself, paid back every penny of his borrowings. To Tom Yawkey, with his hereditary millions, baseball is an expensive toy and a social frolic. But to Bob, who came up by gradual growths from player to office boss to executive, baseball is a sweaty business mixed with thwart and heartburn.

No today he has gone back to running a baseball nursery as he did in the '20's when he was pasturing a herd of psychopathic juniors who were less like a major league team than a lot of thumb-sucking goofs and adenoid gillies—the adolescent Red Ruffings, Jack Rothrock, Dan McFayden, Jack Russell, Billy Rogels, Billy Regans, Phil Todds and Ed Morrissey, mention a few. Though I must admit that the current Bees, with Sisti, Ross, Mast, West, Rowell, etc., are models of dignity compared with the old Carrigan-Quinn debutante.

I have always felt that fate owed Bob a rain check since his personal savings were washed away in a series of unbelievable misfortunes. An elderly club secretary cut his veins in the grandstand tunnel. Fire swept away his left field bleachers. Rain systematically wiped out his Sunday doubleheaders and holiday games. Managers went sour in quick succession. A $50,000 pitcher (Morris) was knifed to death. Two of his financial backers died and their heirs withdrew support. And so on!

TODAY, IF HE HADN'T HAD SUCH a super conscience, Bob might have been sitting pretty at the top of the heap. Because at the height of all his grief, E. S. Barnard, president of the American League, died and the clubowners offered Quinn the job which had been his lifelong ambition.

"No," said Bob. "I've got an unfinished job of work here and a lot of lost money to pay off. I'll stick it through."

He did! And though the bulge at the back of his jaws grew big from grinding his teeth, and his complexion sometimes purpled with apoplectic emotion, no whimper of self-pity escaped his lips. When he sold out to Tom Yawkey he paid back every invested dollar, having nothing left for himself, and went off to Brooklyn to start life anew. And that, said to say, is right where he finds himself today at 70 with an empty cash barrel, a semi-monthly payroll, and a mere dribble of income at the gate.

So here's hoping, while the league is holding a basket to catch the pieces when the Bees fall apart, that the time will come when a malleus fate will relent and allow the old septuagenarian to fit a pattern together which, as Omar the tent-maker says, comes "nearer to the heart's desire."

MacFayden, Lopez Face Bees for Buccs

By BILL GRIMES

NATIONAL LEAGUE FIELD, June 17—Pitted against a former Boston battery, Danny MacFayden and Al Lopez, the Bees opened a four game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates at National League field this afternoon.

Pitcher Callahan Sent to Kansas

The Bees sent Pitcher Joe Callahan to the Kansas City club to complete payment on Pitcher Al Piechota, according to an announcement from John Quinn, Bees' secretary. Callahan is a local product, coming from East Boston.

Bill Poedel, who although he has been in two games in as many days, was the starting pitcher for the Bees with Ray Berres, the former Pirate, doing the receiving.

Al Glosop who was traded for Tony Cuccinello by the Giants reported to the Bees today and will probably see service before the doubles header is over.

PIRATES—Young singled. Elliott flied to West. Garms flied to Ross. Young was ready to steal second, Berres to Miller. NO RUNS.

BEES—Hassett singled. Sisti grounded into a double play, MacFayden to Vaughan to Fletcher. Young tossed out Moore. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

PIRATES—Vaughan walked. As Fletcher struck out, Vaughan was doubled trying to steal second, Berres to Miller. DiMaggio fanned. NO RUNS.

Frank Parker Opens Fight For Clay Crown

CHICAGO, June 17 (AP)—Frank Parker, one-time "boy wonder" of tennis, was ready to begin his bid today for his third national city courts singles title in the 30th annual renewal of the tournament at the River Forest Club.

Parker, defending champion, who also won the clay courts crown in 1933, was scheduled to make his tourney bow late this afternoon in a match with Arthur Marx, son of Movie Comedian Groucho Marx. Parker is seeded second this year just behind Bobby Riggs, singles champion of the United States and England.

QUEEN ALICE VICTOR

Riggs began his quest for his fourth clay courts crown yesterday with an effortless victory over Tom Brown of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-0, 6-4. Alice Marble, ruler of women's tennis in this country and abroad, likewise breezed through a first round opponent, winning over Kitty Lawrence of Winnetka, Ill., 6-1, 6-0.

Fourseeded Welby Van Horn of Los Angeles, tabbed by many as the future singles champion, however, survived only after a terrific test with Bom Kamrath of Texas. The scores were 10-8, 4-6, 7-6, 7-5 and 6-2. Kamrath was leading 4-2 in the fourth set when he fell and injured his ankle.

In the only other match involving a ranked player yesterday, Helen Bernhardt of New York City, seeded second, advanced to the third round with a 6-2, 7-5 decision over Marion Woolhiser of Winnetka.

MCCNELL, ALLOO DUEL

Parker's loungey debut shares interest today with the first-round match pitting third-seeded Don McNell of Oklahoma City against steady-stroking Edward Alloo of Berkeley, Cal.

The men's doubles rankings were completed today, giving the top-seeded spot to McNell and Parker. The other three seeded teams in order are Jack Kramer, Belvidere Garden, Cal. and Van Horn; Gardnar Mulloy, Miami, and Henry Prussoff, Seattle; and Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Cal. and Edwin Amark, San Francisco.

Poughkeepsie Race One of Dark Horses

By ROYAL BROUGHAM

International News Service Sports Writer

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 17 (INS)—Eight long months of strenuous training behind them, 200 of the nation's best oarsmen and their diminutive coxswains were resting in their banner-bedded boathouses along the Hudson's shores today.

Rehearsals are over. Tomorrow they row for keeps.

Only light exercise paddles were programmed for today, and then the eight-oared boats of Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Princeton and Navy of the East, Wisconsin from the Middle West and California and Washington of the far Pacific will go swinging down the four-mile trail.

THEY'RE ALL FAVORED

Tension has tightened along the river front and up the hill in the city itself. Poughkeepsie has taken on a gay holiday air, and is basking in its short moment of glory, enjoying to the fullest the fact that on regatta day it will be the rowing capital of America. This year will go down in rowing history as the regatta of dark horses.

Cornell and Washington are generally conceded the favorites, but there is a dark horse behind every bend in the river.

"Don't overlook Navy," was the solemn warning of Hubert Glendon, of Columbia, who says the Middies are scorching hot.

"They aren't fooling me—California is the boat to beat," was the pre-race statement of Washington's coach, Al Ulbrickson.

Then there is Fred Spohn, of Princeton, who predicts that Columbia will win the race if water conditions are right. Up town, where the alumni of Syracuse are making the welkin ring, Ned Ten Eyck's Orange varsity is getting much support.

Defeatism Beats East Says Tech Coach

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—Bob Moch, former Washington coxswain who coaches the Massachusetts Tech crew, maintains Eastern oarsmen could beat the Western entries in the inter-collegiate regatta if they had a different mental attitude.

"They have an air of defeatism," he declared, "and naturally they can't win that way."

"Just because some of the Western boats came here with some good crews a couple or three years in a row, the boys here in the East have been making excuses for themselves ever since. The Western boats can be beaten."

M. I. T. no longer rows at Poughkeepsie because the Engineers haven't time to prepare for a four-mile race but Moch doesn't see any advantage in shortening it to three miles. He said the crews all would try to "slug it through by sprinting the entire distance" and the race would become a "man killer."

Second Title Shot For Paul Junior

PORTLAND, Me., June 17 (AP)—Paul Junior, the ancient Maine battler, gets his second shot within two months at Henry Armstrong's world welterweight title this Friday.

The 12-round bout, to be staged in Portland, will be Maine's first world title boxing contest, and is expected to attract a crowd of 10,000.

JOE'S OUT, and Joe put him out. Joe Kuhel of White Sox out at second base in game with Red Sox. Joe Cronin makes the putout.

BOY, 10, FOURTH IN 3-MILE RUN

In a field of 11 starters out of 80 entries, a 10-year-old boy, Leo Sullivan of Polk st., Charlestown, finished fourth today in Charlestown's three-mile Bunker Hill Day race for the Mayor Tobin Trophy. Jerry Igo of Charlestown, a CCC boy, was winner of the event, plodding the three miles in 12 minutes 8 seconds.

In second place came John McGee, in third Salvi Saccardo and in fifth Gerard Moran, all of Charlestown.

Four Games $14,000--Sox, Chicago 'Take'

CHICAGO, June 17—The Red Sox, from officials down to the most obscure member of the club, were a happy lot here today as they awaited train time to St. Louis.

The three-day, four-game series with the White Sox had drawn 71,000 spectators and the Sox share of the gate amounted to about $14,000.

In addition the club had taken four straight from the local entry and had seen Galehouse, Hash and Wilson pitch complete games on successive days to increase their lead over the Tigers and Cleveland Indians to 2½ games.

PITCHES NO-HITTER

OCALA, Fla., June 17 (AP)—Don Ryan, big Gainesville right-hander, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Ocala in the Florida state league for a 1-0 decision over the Yachtings.

SOX FLAG CHOICE

Dykes Changes Mind About Boston Outfit After Series Sweep

By JOE CASHMAN

CHICAGO, June 17—Our Red Sox, who did a deal of roaming about the base-paths at Comiskey Park the past three days, spent this off-day roaming about Chicago before boarding a 5:30 train for St. Louis where tomorrow they open a four-game stand, with single games Tuesday and Wednesday and a twin-bill Thursday.

Vitt Stays As Players Drop Charges

CLEVELAND, June 17 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians had laid down their arms today, their insurrection over.

In a statement signed by all but three players, the team called off its sensational rebellion against Manager Oscar Vitt.

"We the undersigned publicly declare to withdraw all statements referring to the resignation of Oscar Vitt," it said. "We feel this action is for the betterment of the Cleveland baseball club."

The statement was drafted and signed at a meeting held following the team's double victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Alva Bradley, club president to whom 12 players presented a demand for Vitt's resignation last Thursday, was present, but the loquacious "ilot did not attend."

One of the players not signing the statement—Outfielder Roy Weatherly—walked out of the meeting before it ended but teammates said he was not among the group originally asking Vitt's ouster. The other two, Outfielder Jeff Heath and Catcher Henry Heflo, are in Cleveland hospitals.

Marble, Riggs Tennis Victors

CHICAGO, June 17 (INS)—Bobby Riggs, America's No. 1 amateur player and Alice Marble, the nation's top ranking feminine star, breezed through easy matches in the National Clay Courts championships at River Forest Tennis Club.

Riggs took the measure of Tom Brown of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-0, 6-4. Miss Marble was even more effective in taking her first round match, dropping only one game to Kitty Lawience of Winnetka, Ill. The score was 6-1, 6-0.

The nine-day tournament, in which were entered 61 men and 32 women, closes next Sunday.

It need not be mentioned that the Sox were enjoying the off-day tremendously, having swept four straight from the White Sox and building up a 2½-game lead which should be sufficient to carry them back from this swing of the wild west still on top of the A. L.

In fact, unless they cool off in their engagements with the Browns, Indians and Tigers, they may roll home into Fenway Park with a more substantial margin, for the Sox are currently hotter than they have been previously in the Joe Cronin regime, with the possible exception of their five-game sweep over the Yankees in 1939.

Peppery Jimmy Dykes, White Sox pilot, is slowly changing his mind about the Cronin corps, and at least half of the 71,000 fans who saw the Soxos here in four contests are entertaining the notion they have had a look at the coming champions of the A. L., successors to the mighty Yankees.

FOUR 10-GAME WINNERS

Dykes has stood steadfastly by his pre-season predictions, in which he refused to rate the Sox highly. Now he is on the verge of being convinced they are the team to beat.

Oscar Vitt, manager of the Indians at last notice, called the Sox a "joke team" about the same time. Vitt was shown otherwise when his Feller and Mlinar were massacred in the Hub.

These pilots intimated that the Sox pitching was cheesy and that no club could get anywhere with cheesy pitching.

An old theory that two 20-game winners are required is apparently on the way into discard and a new theory—four 10-game winners—brought up for debate. Or maybe it should be three 15-game winners, which is a slight improvement.

Denny Galehouse, Herb Hash and Jack Wilson all pitched the full route for victories here. Lefty Grove came close.

2 HOMERS BY WILSON

Along with splendid pitching, the Sox showed the locals that they can win ball games in more ways than one.

In the Friday night and Saturday games they unfurled sleek pitching and timely hitting; in the Sunday opener they displayed the courage of a championship team, tying the contest with two runs in the ninth and winning it in the 12th on Ted Williams' homer 4-3; in the second Sabbath game they returned to their old stride, simply plugging their way to a 14-5 victory on 20 hits, good for 40 bases, including five home runs.

Two were by Wilson, who previously in his major league career had connected for only one; two were by Skipper Joe Cronin (1; Rookie Ed Weiland; the other was by Jimmy Foss.

They left these White Sox in shambles and peisaded the loud-speaking Dykes and the native fans that a team like this is going to spread plenty of terror. The Sox are accomplishing their ends the way the Yankees did in the recent past.

The Yankees won them in the extra innings; they won them when held to half a dozen hits or less; they won them by sheer power.

Note how Young went out of way to break up double play. Bag is two feet to his left. When he saw he was out he went after Jorges, not base. Pirates have been playing great ball for Frank Frisch de late, and fans are expecting them to reach first division with Al Lopez to handle the heretofore raggedy pitching staff.

Make Hair Grow while the sun shines

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, abnormal hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the expert in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp with out charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you. Come in today.

BROWNEHEADS FIELD IN CHARLESTOWN RUN Rosindale's Pinkham Faces Artesani Club

Today's annual 10-mile handicap road race under the auspices of the Bunker Hill Day celebration committee and sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. U., has a list of 61 entrants, including runners from all parts of Massachusetts and also Ellison (Tazara) Brown from Westley, R. I.

The race starts from Stoneham at noon and will finish at the City Sq. Charlestown, Y. M. C. A. clubhouse. Samuel Scanlan, Charlestown has charge of the entries and the race.

Twenty-three prizes are to be awarded, topped by the Maurice J. Tobin trophy. There will be prizes to the next 16 to finish, a prize to the winning club, three individual prizes and a prize to the first Charlestown club.

BROWN SURPRISES

It was a ten-strike for the committee to get Brown's entry, for the Italian swore a year ago that he never would compete in the race again.

He had won 12 straight races up to June 17, including the B. A. A. marathon, but was beaten at Charlestown when the course measured only about nine miles, with Brown judging himself for ten.

Just when he was about to step on it and catch the leaders, he was told the race had ended. He was indignant, but here he is back again.

Brown is in excellent trim. He won the 26-mile Lawrence-Salubrius marathon on Memorial Day, and only last Saturday defeated Johnny Kelley in a thrilling duel to capture the national 10-kilometer championship at Endicott, N. Y. for the second straight year.

The course of this race is as follows: Start at Williams st., at Main st., Stoneham, following Main st. to Fells way to Myrtle av., Charlestown, Main st., Bunker Hill and Chelsea, six to five up.

WONDERLAND ANTICIPATES BEST SEASON

Although dog racing in Massachusetts was supposed to be only a passing fancy when it opened at Wonderland Park, Revere, five years ago, the sixth season, which gets under way next Monday night, gives every indication of being the biggest and best ever.

Thousands have been viewing the schooling races which have been staged at the track daily and which continue this week.

Not only have the crowds been in excess of previous years' schooling attendance, but the dogs have been running faster than in former years.

Already more than a score of canine speedsters have been clocked in 201 for the official futurity schooling, and this is regarded excellent time for the course.

Rural Rube has proved he is as fast as of yore by covering the futurity route in 23.4, or only 2-3 of a second off his own world mark.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

NIGHT BASEBALL would give the Bees the money they need for operating expenses and for new players . . . This was the vehicle that built up the financial reserves of the Brooklyn Dodgers so that they could successfully bid for the services of Joe Medwick.

Casey Stengel

"If you people had been attending the Bees games, it would not have been necessary for Bob Quinn to send me to Pittsburgh," declared Lopez.

Lopez was let go to the Pirates not because Bob Quinn wished to give up his star backstop, but as a result of the urgent need for cash in the Bees' treasury.

Lopez was a power to the defense of the Bees . . . He was also one of the most loyal men on the club, and gave liberally of his time in coaching Phil Mazi, youthful backstop.

The deal that sends Tony Cuccinello to the Giants in return for some young players will not injure the Bees as much as the one that stripped the club of the services of Lopez . . . Cuccinello has been on his way out as a star ball player for two years . . . His legs have given him considerable trouble . . . Bill Terry realizes Tony is advanced in years, but he believes that the veteran may be able to give his club that little extra drive it needs to smash its way to the top of the National League.

THE WAR situation in Europe, with the possibility of the United States having compulsory military training, has been a retarding influence on club owners who might wish to invest large sums of money in young ball players . . . One cannot blame an owner for refusing to invest $25,000 to $50,000 in a star who is of military age . . . You will find baseball magicians will move slowly in their money deals until peace has been restored.

All sports promoters are giving thought to the war situation, and those that are able to do so are setting up financial reserves . . . The hockey clubs are marking time until the Fall, as they cannot make plans for next season now . . . If Canada should vote for conscription, it might mean that the National Hockey League would have to suspend operations for the duration of the war.

In the early stages of the war, sports boomed in Canada . . . As a result of war contracts, thousands of people had jobs at good salaries . . . Since the Germans scored their recent successes in Holland, Belgium and in France, attendance figures have fallen off sharply at sports events in Canada . . . The stress of the war has become so great that people do not give as much attention to sports as they formerly did.

The controlling stockholders of the Bees would like to dispose of their holdings if they could secure a purchaser . . . Under present unsettled conditions it is unlikely that they will be able to do so . . . It would be necessary for new owners to invest $250,000 in players to give the club the punch it needs.

WITH CONDITIONS as they are, Casey Stengel faces the future courageously . . . Casey and Bob Quinn are not the types who give up because they meet with a few reverses . . . In Florida last Spring, Quinn frankly told sports writers his club was two years away from being a first division outfit.

The Bees have some promising young players, and they should keep improving . . . Ross, Miller, Sisti, Rowell, Hassett, West and Masi have great potential possibilities . . . Miller, Sisti and Rowell had the benefit of Cuccinello's coaching, while Lopez taught Masi many things about baseball that will help him in the years that are ahead of him on the diamond.

Lopez is one of the finest coaches of young ball players in the big leagues . . . If things had gone well with the Bees financially, Lopez would have been moved into a key position in the club's farm system . . . The need for immediate cash, however, upset the plans of Bob Quinn and made it necessary for him to send Lopez to Pittsburgh.

It would help the situation of the Bees if Tom Yawkey would take them in as a tenant at Fenway Park . . . There would be financial savings for both clubs under such a setup . . . Light could also be installed at Fenway Park with Sox and Bees dividing the $110,000 cost . . . To date, Yawkey has refused to share his ball park with the Bees.

Triple N. Y. Flop Buccs Burst Jint Bubble

By the Associated Press

There certainly was no joy in Mudville when mighty Casey struck out, but Mudville was a gay carnival town in comparison with the gloom that befogged New York after the double shel-lacking the Yankees, Giants and Dodgers took in Sunday's tussles.

Historians could recall no time when all the three, either favored or even money choices, went into a set of double bills and came out empty handed.

Most amazing of the day's doings was the way the lovely Browns turned on the world champion Yankees and beat them 12-6 and 6-5. After being walloped seven straight times this season by the Bronx Belters, the Browns were hardly considered good cannon fodder.

OUTSLUG CHAMPS

Yet, paced by Pitcher Vernon Kennedy's home run, they out-slugged the champs in the first game and then punched their way courageously out of a hole to win the second game in the late innings.

Saddest case of the day was the fate of Brooklyn's Whitlow Wyatt. He twirled his best game of the season—a two-hitter—but had to accept a 1-0 defeat when one of the two hits turned out to be a home run from the bat of Cincinnati's Linsy Frey. Paul Derringer pitched a six-hitter for the Reds.

In the second game the Reds hopped on Curt Davis, debuting as a Dodger, in the early innings, and the befuddled Brooks never caught up against Jim Turner's eight-hit pitching, going down, 5-2.

GIANTS DEFLATED

The Giants, as cheery as a pigeon over their eight-game winning streak, were talking about charging the Pirates admission to get into the Polo Grounds. However, Max Butcher pitched a two-hitter at them and Truett Sewell followed with a creditable performance and the glutinous Giants went down helplessly, 5-0 and 3-3.

Otherwise in the National League the Cardinals made it four in a row over the Phillies, winning 9-3 and 3-1, as Fiddler McGee and Jack Russell combined on an eight-hitter in the opener. Then Lon Warneke did some fine pitching and Johnny Mize clouted his 15th homer in the afterpiece.

The Cubs and the Bees split their twin bill, the Cubs getting enough inspiration from Claude Passeau's five-hitter to win, 9-1, after losing the first in 11 innings by dint of some sloppy fielding, 5-4.

INDIANS MARK PEACE

The Red Sox kept atop the American League, via the home run route. Ted Williams' 12th-inning homer gave them a 4-3 win over the White Sox and clusters of homers by Pitcher Jack Wilson and Manager Joe Cronin were potent factors in taking the second game, by 14-5.

The Indians paved the way for a reconciliation with Manager Oscar Vitt, by socking the Athletics 4-2 on Bob Feller's three-hit, 12-strikeout hurling and 4-3 on Al Milnar's eight-hit performance. Feller's foe, 21-year-old Porter Vaughn, gave up but two blows in seven innings before retiring in favor of a pinch hitter.

The Tigers made a sweep of their series with the Nats, claiming an 8-7 victory on Barney McCosky's pay-off single in the eighth that scored two runs.

Nice 60-1 Workout

CATOOSA, Okla., June 17 (AP)—Catoosa's baseball team got plenty of exercise in a doubleheader.

In the first game Catoosa swamped Verdigris, 26-0. In the second it knocked off Chelsea, 34-1.

Pitcher Ray Fennell held Chelsea hitless until two were out in the ninth, when he gave two.

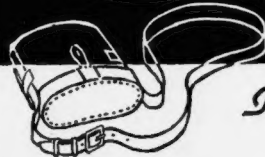

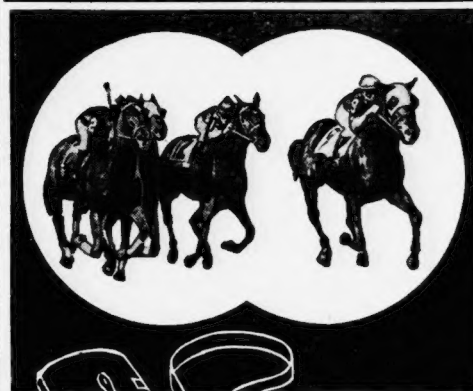

HAPPY NEWLYWEDS. Max Butcher, Pittsburgh pitcher, beams happily with blushing bride, the former Esther B. Combs, after he blanked Giants, 5-0, with two hits. The couple were recently married at Washington, Pa. Butcher came here today with the Pirates, and gave credit to Al Lopez, former Bee, for sterling performance.

Little, McSpaden, 3d, in Inverness Play

TOLEDO, O., June 17 (INS)—Ralph Guldahl, a two-time National Open champion, and Slammmin' Sammy Sneed won the Inverness Invitational and $1500 prize money with a plus 15 total count. Second honors went to Dick Metz and Jimmy Demaret with their plus 12. National Open Champion Lawrence Little and Harold McSpaden finished third with plus nine, and Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, twice Inverness winners and leaders during the first four rounds, finished fourth with a plus one.

CARDS DELIGHTED AT MEDWICK SALE

By the Associated Press

If Fordham and Minnesota aren't cooking up a football series, why did Jack Coffey, Fordham athletic director, travel all the way to Minneapolis to huddle with Gopher big wigs?

Dizzy Dean received one vote for the Texas League All-Star team. If the Cubs want to find out what ails Dean's flipper, why don't they call in the medico who put the ting back into Carl Hubbell's left arm? (adv.) . . . Figure all you want to on Poughkeepsie tomorrow. It all adds up—Cornell.

IT WAS FATHER'S DAY, and the New York World-Telegram recalled that Jimmy Walker fathered Sunday baseball, Branch Rickey the farm system, Larry MacPhail night baseball in the majors, Harry M. Stevens the hot dog and Roger Bresnahan the shin guards.

Fifteen former Oklahoma U. football players—all developed by Coach Tom Stidham—will be playing with the big time pro teams this fall. And any coach who can beat that record will please move up to the head of the class.

IRE CAMPBELL, ENID (OKLA.) NEWS-EGGLE: "Rogers Hornsby now can satisfy his well-known love for the races without leaving the park . . . Four stars to the much maligned Bill Terry for the best building-up job in the majors—but is he glad he didn't trade Jo Jo Moore?"

LOUIS AT RACE: GO WITH GODOY CRISIS FOR JOE

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Editor

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y., June 17 (INS)—Joe Louis is punching as hard as ever, he is boxing as smooth as oil flowing over plate glass and he is mean in a smouldering sort of way as he looks ahead to Thursday night and defense of the world heavyweight championship against Arturo Godoy.

Briefly, Louis has whipped himself into shape to avenge the stigma of letting Godoy—a punchless ham-and-egger—go 15 rounds in their previous meeting last February.

Weighing 200 pounds and seemingly keen, Louis is mentally and physically in as good shape as he ever has been, and the outcome of this fight is going to be interesting to contemplate. The fight itself is a sad story.

LOUIS READY . . . Louis and his backers agree here at his camp that he is ready now, ready to really get in there and leave leather in retaliation for the humiliation visited upon him by Godoy in their last meeting when Louis was made to look extremely bad.

If Louis doesn't win this one by a knockout the answer is (1) Louis isn't the terror he used to be or (2) Godoy is the toughest guy currently in the ring. The fight may present the answer.

The point is, Louis, as he looks here in training, should be able to hit Godoy often and hard. Even under wraps the bomber quite obviously is ready and keyed up. If he does then throw his punches in there, and nothing happens, the conclusion must be that he isn't the man he used to be or Godoy is strictly unshakable.

GODOY REAL THREAT . . . Louis is a quiet, morose, uncommunicative sort of person and you never can be sure of what he will do until he gets in the ring. But we think he is going in there banging away this time.

That doesn't mean, necessarily, that we think he is going to score a knockout. For all of his mechanical ability, Louis is dull-witted in the ring and if Godoy and his Svengeal, Mc. Alphonse Wells, have connected a surprise of one kind or another, Louis will flounder around flat-footed as usual.

But we do know that Louis has mustered that same old determination that he always has shown after a bad fight and we think he has a great chance to recoup. It takes a bad fight now and then to get him on edge, because he is naturally phlegmatic and prone to sort of go with too many easy wins.

MAYBE A KAYO, MAYBE NO . . . He is going to enter the ring at about 200 pounds even, or only two or three pounds more than he weighed when he won the title from Jim Braddock in June of 1937. In a few heavily put together words he is ready for this battle and may win it in extreme haste. We will make this double-jointed prediction: That either he will score a knockout in an early round or the fight will be a repetition of the last between these two—one of the worst exhibitions ever put on anywhere.

25 COLLEGE GIRLS STRIVE FOR TITLE AT LONGWOOD NET

The national collegiate girls' tennis championships will get under way tomorrow morning at Longwood with 25 competitors seeking the crown vacated by the 1939 champion, Louise Raymond of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Smith College.

HERE TOMORROW. Christine Waples of Bryn Mawr, who will compete in national girls' tennis tournament at Longwood beginning tomorrow and running through Saturday.

Watson Annexes Decathlon Title

CLEVELAND, June 17 (AP)—Big Bill Watson, who worked his way through Michigan University as secretary to heavyweight titleholder Joe Louis, won the 1940 national decathlon championship here, setting two new records and blasting the hopes of Western Reserve's Joe Scott who sought his third straight title.

The 21-year-old Negro amassed 7523 points, awarded for proximity to fixed standards. In the 10-event, two-day test for "iron men." There were nine other competitors.

Lee Todd, graduate student at the University of Colorado, was second with 6942 points, 238 more than Scott.

Miss Raymond, who has reigned for the past two years, has graduated and no longer is eligible. The other finalist of '39, Elaine Fischel, University of California at Los Angeles, has not been heard from this year, so is not figured to compete.

However, two semi-finalists of last year's tournament will be on hand. They are Frances Prindle of Vassar, who bowed to Miss Fischel, and Christine Waples of Bryn Mawr, who ousted by Miss Raymond.

Despite Miss Fischel's expected absence the Coast will have one entrant in the tournament in the person of Ann Wilder, University of California. Another competitor who is traveling a long distance is Judy Lachenbruch, Wisconsin University.

The rest of the field comes from the Eastern Seaboard.

Wheaton has the most representatives: Bettina Constant, Barbara Lathrop, Ruth Eddy, Betty Meyer, Annette Greeley and Elinor Hagggett. Smith has four in Betty Babcock, Ruth Cunningham, Barbara Brant and Barbara Bixler.

From Vassar come Frances Prindle and Dedham's Kay Hubbard; from Wellesley, Martha Elliott, Ann Cohen and Barbara Prentiss. Mrs. Jean Nash and Dorothy Bruno represent Radcliffe; Jeannette Bricker, Gloria Allen and "Babe" Madden, Lake Erie. The list is concluded by two Manhattanville delegates—Anne Dealey and Margaret Coakley.

B. C. Grads to Start Softball Tomorrow

The Boston College Alumni Soft Ball League will open its second year of competition tomorrow evening at Alumni Field.

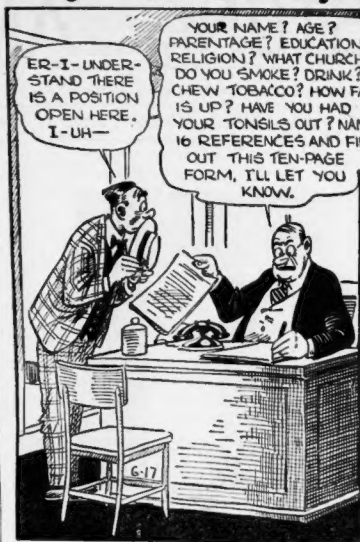

There will be a flag raising ceremony at 6:30 p. m. and Rev. Father Patrick F. Collins will toss out the first ball in the feature game, the B. C. Club of Cambridge vs. The class of 1920. These two teams met in the playoffs for the championship last season.

The other contests are B. C. Club of Milton vs. B. C. Club of Somerville, B. C. Club of Lynn vs. B. C. Club of Belmont, B. C. Club of South Boston vs. The Heights Club and the B. C. Law School vs. B. C. Club of Brockton.

A Sign of Intelligence?

BOSTON, June 16 (J.W.)—Some people say that this is a sign of intelligence, but it is not. Conditions today put a high premium on personal appearance and if this man were really intelligent, he would find out why he is losing his hair, by seeking expert advice. Baldness today is more apt to be judged by one's friends and the world about him as a sign of negligence and carelessness. At least 80% of all premature baldness is due to local scalp conditions which can be corrected and checked if caught in time. Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through treatment by John E. Warner, New England's leading hair and scalp specialist and hundreds of others have been rejected because benefits were not certain. If you are losing your hair, you should consult him now. There is no charge for a private consultation, and if your case is accepted for treatment, you can be sure of saving and improving your hair. John E. Warner's offices are at 515 Washington Street, 7th floor, opposite R. H. White's, near the corner of West Street. Hours 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily—Sats. to 6 p. m. Phone Hub. 1705. Free consultation and examination. Strict privacy. There is a separate dept. for women. Fees for treatment are very moderate.

Dix Fails to Finish

TULSA, Okla., June 17 (AP)—Dixie Dean has been credited today with his second straight victory since returning to the Texas League but he failed to finish as his Tulsa Oilers defeated Oklahoma City, 4 to 1, in a seven-inning game.

For six innings Dean broke an effective curve ball over the corners allowing only two hits. He faltered in the seventh and was replaced by Julian Tubb, a fast baller.
